The nation's death toll passed the 173 mark today, as most of the country broiled under a blazing sun for the sixth consecutive day.

"No relief in sight" was the gloom forecast from government weather bureau through the greater part of the heat-stricken area.

High humidity added to the suffering.

Blythe, Calif., was the nation's hot spot yesterday, with a peak of 116. Phoenix, Ariz., reported 112, while it was 111 in Las Vegas, Nev., 110 in Yuma, Ariz., and 108 in Imperial, Calif. Pierre, 29, Dak., had 106.

Generally along the Pacific coast it was fair and moderately warm, with a peak of 83 in Los Angeles.

Forecasters predicted "possible showers" for parts of the midwest today, but forebodingly added, "It will only make things worse. Humidity, you know."

The Chicago board of health reported three new deaths from heat prostration today. From yesterday's high of 93, the mercury dropped only to 78 during the night, and today rose with the sun.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Family picnics at secluded shaded places along highways, and country roads, were a frequent sight on Sunday afternoon. Dust covered meals are almost a thing of the past, with the new and improved highways making picnicking out of doors a real pleasure minus dust.

It is stated that "If we cure the evils that breed war, we wouldn't have war." This thought was expressed in a very inspiring sermon Sunday.

Singing of songs that "never grow old" in typical barge shop quartet style, was brought to mind to Pa. News on a recent evening, when a quartet of boys, hunched on the South Jefferson street bridge endeavored to reel off a few of the old timers, "Mandy Lee," "Old Black Joe," "Maggie" and others, were really well sung, and in good harmony.

The heat steadily shining down on shoppers, has given their faces a wrinkled "piano" like expression. Won't be long until they can keep smiling though, for fall, and winter seasons aren't so far away.

Seeing a gentleman leaving a store with a box containing a large number of hanks of yarn and knitting needles, intimated that the war relief is progressing. He was distributing the yarn to local women, who (Continued On Page Two)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Strong indications that the United States government will refuse to recognize the seizure of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania by Soviet Russia were seen in official quarters today.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles reported this government is assembling all facts surrounding the decision of the parliament of the three Baltic nations to petition Russia for entrance into the Soviet Union.

The parliamentary bodies of these countries, however, are already completely under domination of Moscow after an aftermath to the Russian military occupation. It was reported in unofficial dispatches that some of the former leaders of the three countries have been seized by the Soviet-controlled authorities.

HAVANA, July 23.—Delegates to the inter-American conference of foreign ministers settled down today to a round of committee sessions today to study the address of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who laid down the United States' program for protecting the western hemisphere against totalitarian military or economic penetration.

One of the most important proposals advanced by Hull was that of a "collective trusteeship" by the 21 American Republics over European possessions in this hemisphere "should the occasion arise." Purpose of this plan is to prevent transfer of such possessions from one non-American power to another.

Dr. Leopold Melo, the Argentine delegate, who spoke after Hull finished, called for preservation of democracy in the new world. He declared that the Argentine government was not in accord with developments in Europe during the past six months.

LONDON, July 23.—German raiding planes ranged far and wide over England, Scotland, Wales and the English Channel today and during the night, keeping up the incessant battering of the British Isles which the nation regards as the prelude to a major attack.

While the people of Britain rallied behind Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax's emphatic rejection of Chancellor Hitler's "final appeal to common sense," British anti-aircraft guns and fighting planes blazed a fiery reply to the German bombs.

An air ministry announcement indicated that the widespread German raiders had failed to do much damage. It said:

"Enemy aircraft during the night dropped small numbers of bombs at many coastal points, including the Thames Estuary (near London), South Wales, and southeast Scotland.

Supposed Publicity Stunt Turns Out To Be Real Tragedy

(International News Service)
MINNEAPOLIS, July 23.—What at first was thought a publicity stunt today was an unexplained tragedy following the discovery of the body of Ace Van Kort, "Bat Man" parachutist from Denver.

Van Kort's body was recovered last night from the Minnesota River. Whether his parachute, for use after he had guided himself through the air with "bat wings," had failed to open, or whether he was unable to free himself after landing in the river, was not determined.

The 22-year-old stunt man leaped from an airplane at 10,000 feet Saturday. When his disappearance was reported, deputy sheriffs at first thought it an attempt to gain publicity through a "mystery disappearance."

Van Kort came here seeking a chance to perform at the Minneapolis aquennial, now in progress.

Bring me some ice, say a hundred pounds and some lemons to mix a drink, and a dash of sugar not very much, a little will do I think. COLORADO SPRINGS, July 23.—Years ago when Wendell Willkie was a boy and 35 cents was a lot of money, the curly-haired youngster drove Joe De Hority's cows to and from pasture every day in Elwood, Ind., for that munificent sum per week.

Joe De Hority's old farm is now Callaway Park and the cows and the old swimming hole have disappeared but Wendell Willkie will be back on that old ground on August 17 to accept formally nomination that he is the nominee of the Republican party for the presidency.

There is a touch of sentiment in Willkie which does not always show through and a touch of mischief and good humor that is never very far from the surface.

Sentiment dictated the selection of the old cow pasture for the notification speech and mischief prescribed a brief appearance on the steps of the old high school, Willkie twice having been suspended from classes there.

Announcement of the date for the notification ceremonies was made by the candidate after the arrival here of Rep. Body Of 'Bat Man'
Is Found In RiverSupposed Publicity Stunt Turns
Out To Be Real
Tragedy

(International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23.—What at first was thought a publicity stunt today was an unexplained tragedy following the discovery of the body of Ace Van Kort, "Bat Man" parachutist from Denver.

Van Kort's body was recovered last night from the Minnesota River. Whether his parachute, for use after he had guided himself through the air with "bat wings," had failed to open, or whether he was unable to free himself after landing in the river, was not determined.

The 22-year-old stunt man leaped from an airplane at 10,000 feet Saturday. When his disappearance was reported, deputy sheriffs at first thought it an attempt to gain publicity through a "mystery disappearance."

Van Kort came here seeking a chance to perform at the Minneapolis aquennial, now in progress.

Get me a fan, a palm leaf fan, one as broad as a door, and get me a tree, a leafy tree, and soft, downy, grassy floor. Then leave me alone in the bosky dell where the woodbine clammers about, for days like these even shady trees, would almost hate to be out. Bring me some ice, say a hundred pounds and some lemons to mix a drink, and a dash of sugar not very much, a little will do I think. Then leave me alone for a day or so, till the cool rains come this way, for weather like this is no time to work, its hot ninety-one today.

Garner Enroute To Home In Texas

Vice President Leaves Capital

Silent As To Whether Or Not He Will Return To Congress Session

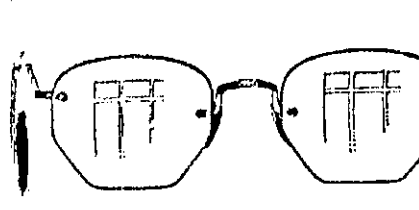

MAKES NO CALL ON PRESIDENT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Vice President John Nance Garner was enroute today to his Texas home, without having paid his customary farewell call on President Roosevelt and without disclosing whether he will return to the capitol before congress adjourns.
The vice president went home for his usual summer vacation, but the circumstances surrounding his departure were indicative of a protest against Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance of a third term nomination. Garner was enroute to his Texas home, without having paid his customary farewell call on President Roosevelt and without disclosing whether he will return to the capitol before congress adjourns.
Garner's departing utterance—and it revealed his frame of mind—came when he was asked whether he would stay at his Uvalde, Texas, home for the rest of the summer. He snipped this reply:
"I'll reserve my decision on that. I have a leader who waits until the last minute to make up his mind."
With Garner gone, Democratic anti-third termers were making overtures to Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, to act as their leader in opposing President Roosevelt's re-election. Wheeler, however, shunned the overtures, declaring he would have nothing to do with any organization opposing Mr. Roosevelt's re-election.

of this hemisphere it might be all right—but all you're getting is promises," Crawford added.
Special Message
The request came in the form of a special message from Mr. Roosevelt to congress. Shortly after it was read, Chairman Steagall (D) Ala., of the banking committee, introduced a bill complying with the presidential request.
Under terms of Steagall's measure, the import-export bank's funds would be increased from the present $200,000,000 to $700,000,000; the existing proviso which limits loans to any one country to $20,000,000 would be lifted as far as countries in this hemisphere are concerned, and the operations of the bank would be extended from June 30, 1941 to Jan. 22, 1947.
Got To Show Reason
The new funds, which the president declared are needed to facilitate trade and to maintain economic stability in the new world, would be made available through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
"If one carefully surveys the lack of results from previous loans by the bank, I think one would feel as I do," Crawford said. "I think the bank should come here and put all its cards on the table—they've got to show me some strong reasons why they should have this additional money."
"It all ties into the present Havana conference. Most of the people in these countries down there feel they can outsmart the United States, and unless we exercise great care they will just continue to exploit the United States treasury."

HITLER PREPARES FOR FULL-SCALE WAR ON BRITAIN

the politico-diplomatic stage of the war ushered in with signing of the Franco-German armistice at Compiègne had come to an end.
Grand-Scale War To Start
"Grand-scale military warfare against England now begins," a spokesman said.
Bitterly condemning both Churchill and Halifax as "gravediggers of the British empire" this official declared:
"The lid is off and the dice have fallen."
"Halifax outdid himself in negative hypocrisy. He has called forth the necessity of another form of procedure than we have hitherto followed, namely, an appeal to reason."
"Since he will not listen to the Fuehrer we must conclude that it does not matter to him and his clique whether or not the British empire is destroyed."
"The future will show who was right."
"If Halifax thinks he can rely on states or other lands, the foreign secretary has spoken of 'Anglican prayers for our victory' we leave that to him. History will show whether or not England's destiny should have been tossed away on a basis of philosophical, religious phrases, or should have been decided by common sense."
"The Reich no longer has anything to say except that from the German side now will come only one answer which lies beyond the scope of messages of words."
"Germany knows how to settle, not only with fighting people but with praying people as well."

Firm Answer
The spokesman, who obviously was passing on the decision of the highest quarters, called attention to the recent spurt of British royal air force activity against allegedly non-military objectives. In this connection Berlin newspapers immediately began to prepare the public mind for events to come. This comment by Nachrichtenabe was typical.
"Halifax' new British declaration of war against Germany, must now be answered in a firm, hard way so that this band of criminals, reactionaries and obnoxious hypocrites never again can hold the threat of war over Germany."
Ever since Compiègne, Wilhelmstrasse quarters said, Hitler hoped for a bloodless settlement to keep the British empire intact and fit it into a "revised Europe." But the speech of Lord Halifax totally blacked out any such possibility. It was said, and total war now will come.
Today's communique by the German high command was regarded as a foreboding symptom. It told of attacks upon five important British ports, and it is expected such raids would increase daily, systematically broadening in their number and the areas covered, with several days of intense air bombardment preceding "the final stage of the conquest."
Prior to this afternoon's declaration it had been anticipated in Berlin that the German decision to attack in full would be withheld pending Churchill's speech on the off chance he might choose to sue for peace. The semi-official news Agency DNB, however, early gave the clue to Hitler's decision.

GERMANY STEPPING INTO TANGLED BALKAN SITUATION ONCE MORE

Vago, for proposing a bill to split up the entire Hungarian state into autonomous national groups.
The expulsion was a severe blow to the prestige of the Hungarian Nazi party, which some time ago was abandoned by Germany.
The position of Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleki is now described as strengthened ever, and he said to enjoy the complete confidence of both Germany and Italy.
Russo-German Interplay
Russo-German interplay in the Balkan situation was stressed once again by appointment of former Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu as envoy to Moscow. The naming of an important statesman to the Moscow post was regarded as symptomatic of Rumania's diplomatic tight-rope walking between Berlin and the Kremlin.
Also symptomatic was a trip to Constantia yesterday by Rumanian Premier Gafencu and German and Italian ambassadors to Bucharest. Relaxing at a fashionable beach, the trio discussed Balkan affairs and Gafencu told the Axis representatives that his government's situation would be desperate if Italy and Germany press for total satisfaction of Hungary's territorial claims.
Upon his return from the "beach party," Gafencu immediately talked with King Carol.
Balkan diplomatic quarters understand that the Axis powers firmly back Hungary's claims for Transylvania and expect the impending crisis may prove the greatest in Rumanian history.
King Carol may lose control of events, they said, and "total internal confusion" in Rumania may be the result.

Later it was reported German raiders caused slight damage in Wales this morning before they were driven off by anti-aircraft batteries and pursuit planes.
A few hours after midnight about 100 incendiary bombs were dropped on a southeastern Scottish town. Three buildings and two houses were set on fire. One incendiary bomb, dropped on a tenement building, penetrated to the ground floor but the flames were extinguished quickly.

Bombs also fell in Wales and in southeastern Scotland, but in each area British fighters drove off the Nazi planes.

Farmers through the corn belt watched thermometers with alarm as the heat continued unabated. Fearful the fiery sun and withering winds near their crops.

Only a drenching rain within the next few days will save the corn in eastern Nebraska, where no rain has fallen for 26 successive days.
Illinois farmers were also apprehensive. "Serious impairment confronts the Illinois corn crop unless a heavy general rain is forthcoming," federal crop statistician A. J. Surratt reported today.
Ohio today reported 25 deaths from prostration and drownings since Friday. Mercury readings of 95 degrees were recorded in Cleveland yesterday.

The boys have erected a dam of stones, about forty feet below the bridge, which raises the height of the water, to afford them a small "swimming hole". Further below, some boys could be seen attempting to "navigate" a home made boat, which was difficult on account of shallow water. With one in the ship it required considerable pushing to get much progress.

Pa New is informed that the southern part of the city and county experienced a heavy rainstorm during the evening hours, Monday, while the northern part of the city and county got no rain at all. A heavy shower covered the entire city this morning, however.

Predonia must be having some sort of a celebration this week. The New morning rambler, in going through that Mercer county town last night, discovered that the public square is dotted with tents, looking much like a carnival arrangement.

Some unusual places for group conversations are discovered now and then. On a highway near Mercer, last night, a group of people were engaged in spirited conversation, along the road, with several of the number seated on top of tombstones of the cemetery.

Those bathing beauties of radio, stage and screen fame who pose in up-to-the-minute-bathing styles are not the only ones around the country who don a nice suit and never go in the water, but sit along the sides, watching the other swimmers and posing. Around the swimming pools in Lawrence County, this Pa New saw any number of this type Monday afternoon. Upon inquiring of one such person, she sedately replied that upon no condition could anybody entice her to go swimming, because she has just had her hair "fixed." My! My!

Bitterly condemning both Churchill and Halifax as "gravediggers of the British empire" this official declared:

"The lid is off and the dice have fallen."

"Halifax outdid himself in negative hypocrisy. He has called forth the necessity of another form of procedure than we have hitherto followed, namely, an appeal to reason."

"Since he will not listen to the Fuehrer we must conclude that it does not matter to him and his clique whether or not the British empire is destroyed."

"The future will show who was right."

"If Halifax thinks he can rely on statements of other lands (the foreign secretary had spoken of 'American prayers for our victory') we leave that to him. History will show whether or not England's destiny should have been tossed away on a basis of philosophical, religious phrases, or should have been decided by common sense."

"The Reich no longer has anything to say except that from the German side now will come only one answer which lies beyond the scope of messages of words."

"Germany knows how to settle, not only with fighting people but with praying people as well."

Firm Answer
The spokesman, who obviously was passing on the decision of the highest quarters, called attention to the recent spurt of British royal air force activity against allegedly non-military objectives. In this connection Berlin newspapers immediately began to prepare the public mind for events to come. This comment by Nachtausgabe was typical:

"Halifax' new British declaration of war against Germany, must now be answered in a firm, hard way so that this band of criminals, reactionaries and obnoxious hypocrites never again can hold the threat of war over Germany."

Ever since Compiegne, Wilhelmstrasse quarters said, Hitler hoped for a bloodless settlement to keep the British empire intact and fit it into a "revised Europe." But the speech of Lord Halifax totally blacked out any such possibility, it was said, and total war now will come.

Today's communique by the German high command was regarded as a foreboding symptom. It told of attacks upon five important British ports, and it is expected such raids would increase daily, systematically broadening in their number and the areas covered, with several days of intense air bombardment preceding the final stage of the conquest.

Prior to this afternoon's declaration it had been anticipated in Berlin that the German decision to attack in full would be withheld pending Churchill's speech on the off chance he might choose to sue for peace. The semi-official news Agency DNB, however, early gave the clue to Hitler's decision.

Vago, for proposing a bill to split up the entire Hungarian state into autonomous national groups.

The expulsion was a severe blow to the prestige of the Hungarian Nazi party, which some time ago was abandoned by Germany.

The position of Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleki is now described as stronger than ever, and he said to enjoy the complete confidence of both Germany and Italy.

Russo-German Interplay
Russo-German interplay in the Balkan situation was stressed once again by appointment of former Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu as envoy to Moscow. The naming of an important statesman to the Moscow post was regarded as symptomatic of Rumania's diplomatic tight-rope walking between Berlin and the Kremlin.

Also symptomatic was a trip to Constantinople yesterday by Rumanian Premier Gurgutu and the German and Italian ambassadors to Bucharest. Relaxing at a fashionable beach, the trio discussed Balkan affairs and Gurgutu told the Axis representatives that his government's situation would be desperate if Italy and Germany press for total satisfaction of Hungary's territorial claims.

Upon his return from the "beach party" Gurgutu immediately talked with King Carol.

Balkan diplomatic quarters understand that the Axis powers firmly back Hungary's claims for Transylvania and expect the impending crisis may prove the greatest in Rumanian history.

King Carol may lose control of events, they said, and "total internal confusion" in Rumania may be the result.

NAZI BOMBERS KEEP UP RAIDS UPON BRITAIN

sions during the morning but no bombs fell inland. It was believed that shipping in the English Channel was under attack.

Later it was reported German raiders caused slight damage in Wales this morning before they were driven off by anti-aircraft batteries and pursuit planes.

A few hours after midnight about 100 incendiary bombs were dropped on a southeastern Scottish town. Three buildings and two houses were set on fire. One incendiary bomb, dropped on a tenement building, penetrated to the ground floor, but the flames were extinguished quickly.

There was only one casualty in this raid—a resident who was injured and taken to a hospital for treatment. British fighting planes ascended and drove off the raiders.

Terrific Barrage

Other German bombers soared over various sections of northeastern and southeastern Scotland, Wales and southwestern and North-eastern England.

One town in southwestern England was awakened early in the morning by a terrific anti-aircraft barrage. Amid the deafening noise the sky was lighted brilliantly by searchlight beams and bursting shells and tracer bullets. Bombs were dropped but no damage was reported.

German planes twice flew over northeastern England, dropping eight bombs after anti-aircraft batteries went into action. No damage was reported in this zone.

Bombs also fell in Wales and in southeastern Scotland, but in each area British fighters drove off the Nazi planes.

Fleet Is Increased

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Britain's fleet of destroyers is rapidly being increased despite the losses suffered since hostilities began. Loss of the Destroyer Brazen, announced yesterday, brought the total of British destroyers sunk in the war to 27.

In addition, it was revealed, the large British naval expansion plan announced last September is now nearing completion. Three flotillas of 24 ships already have been added to the fleet, and in the next few months the total number of new destroyers is expected to reach 50.

Six fast destroyers of the Hardy type, under construction for the Brazilian government, have been taken over by Britain in accordance with a clause in the contract under which Brazil agreed to this action in the event of a British national emergency.

and parks, where many spent last night hoping in vain for a cool breeze. Many of the 173 fatalities were caused by drowning.

Farmers through the corn belt watched thermometers with alarm as the heat continued unabated, fearful the fiery sun and withering winds would ruin their crops.

Damage to the corn crop was reported in western and central Iowa, and agrarians stated serious statewide damage to the grain now in the critical tasseling stage is probable unless the 100-degree heat abates within a few days.

Need Drenching Rain

Only a drenching rain within the next few days will save the corn in eastern Nebraska, where no rain has fallen for 26 successive days.

Illinois farmers were also apprehensive "Serious impairment confronts the Illinois corn crop unless a heavy general rain is forthcoming," federal crop statistician A. J. Surratt reported today.

Ohio today reported 25 deaths from prostration and drownings since Friday. Mercury readings of 95 degrees were recorded in Cleveland yesterday.

The Baltimore area sweltered in 99 degree temperatures, but reported no new fatalities.

Weather forecasters in Washington, who were sent home at 1 p. m. yesterday along with other government office workers, could promise residents of the nation's Capital no relief today. A high reading of 96 degrees was recorded yesterday. 24 persons were overcome, and one boy was drowned.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

KINDERGARTENS FILL NEED

With fewer playmates among "privileged children" the need by them of kindergartens grows as also grows this need for underprivileged children. So my wife points out in the current issue of The Ohio Parent Teacher under the title "The Growing Need of Playmates". To quote:

"At the present rate, there'll be more lonely adults tomorrow than there were yesterday. Day by day there are fewer children and more grown-ups in our population; also more one-child families and more families with no children at all. Children of a given neighborhood, especially in the better economic areas, are having fewer playmates of their own age. They must spend more time with older children and adults.

Lonesome Children

"Now the child who lives almost exclusively with adults, even though he be understood and treated with sympathy and consideration, cannot have the opportunities to grow broadly and to learn to get along happily with the people who will be adults when he will be.

"A person learns best to get along with others and to enjoy them, who has grown with others, constantly mingled with others—who has played with other three-year-olds when he was three, other five-year-olds when he was five, other eight-year-olds when he was eight, and so on. If, on the other hand, he has lacked the day-by-day companionship of his contemporaries, he has missed such lessons at social adaptation.

"How can he be expected then to make up these arrears? How can he be expected to show up well with others at 18 or at 30 in the light of these earlier lags and losses?

Ideal Playmates

"No parent or adult can be an ideal playmate for the growing child. Even a child much older or much younger cannot be.

"We grown-ups may aid the young child in learning a few play skills useful to him in fun with others of his age. But for him to gain full value from these skills he must exercise them with other children about the same age as he is. We can, of course, set the stage so he will have adequate materials and will have the opportunity to have normal playmates.

"In the light of the foregoing we see a growing need of public kindergartens in order to afford playmates for these young children who rarely or never have playmates at home or in the home neighborhood. As we all know, of course, the strongest argument for kindergartens at public expense has been the care and protection and guidance of the child in the congested and underprivileged areas and for the help the kindergarten may afford the working mother and the contribution to her home standards and home life.

Defeat Loneliness

"This reason for kindergartens is as strong as it has ever been. The World AND THE Mud Puddles

USE ALL MAN POWER

From Washington comes a report that approximately fifty thousand WPA workers will be trained for special duties in connection with the national defense program. That represents a small beginning in needed employment of maximum manpower for preparedness.

It is a fact worth remembering that for several years prior to the opening of hostilities in Europe, Germany's manpower was fully employed. It was used, not in peaceful occupation, but in the production of munitions and war materials.

In these same years there was unemployment in Britain and in France. The manpower which should have been used to strengthen the defenses of both nations stood idle.

Naturally, this country hesitates to convert itself into a vast munitions plant, as the Nazis have done; but obviously our full productive powers cannot be exerted while large segments of our manpower are used in non-vital public works projects and similar enterprises. The rapidity of our strides toward adequate preparedness depends directly upon the rate at which idle manpower is absorbed in private enterprises, or in government enterprises related to defense.

Unemployment conditions should be watched closely in the months ahead. It is there that truly effective national effort will be reflected.

"Everything all right?"

"Fine, but—"

"Did the call wake you up?"

"I've been trying to tell you that you've got the wrong number," said the voice at the other end.

Good Taste

Last evening, I was in a group that got deep into the subject of culture tests and ratings. One man said he can always classify people culturally by the care they take of their teeth. Others rated them by their voices, their pronunciations, their grammar, their dress, their streamlined figures. One very cultured man said he could classify moderns by the way they acknowledge gifts—particularly wedding, birthday, graduation, Christmas presents.

Those to the manner born always make acknowledgment by written note; those a grade lower use cards; lower still are those who wait until they see the donor before making their acknowledgments.

Readers' Questions Answered Question: Please advise me if it is considered improper or bad taste to give a shower for a dear friend who has been divorced and is to remarry? Only her very close friends are to be invited.—Maude.

Answer: Ordinarily, a divorcee is married without much fanfare, but there is no reason why her very close friends may not shower her with gifts before her second marriage.

Question: May I correctly use a round gold framed mirror over a mahogany table.—R. C.

Answer: You may indeed. Question: When a maid has made a mistake in serving, should she be reprimanded at the time or later, should the hostess apologize for the mistake?—H.

Answer: The mistake (if minor) should be ignored. After guests have departed, the hostess should politely tell her servant how to handle such a situation in future. If it is something that must be corrected immediately, the hostess should say courteously: "Mary, Mr. Jones has no pastry fork," or whatever is needed.

What's What At A Glance

Discuss Possibility Of Wilkie Victory
Senate's Actions May Provide Headache
May Be Able To Win Majority In House

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Hopeful as the Republicans are of electing Wendell L. Wilkie to the White House, they have to admit that, they won't have a solidly Republican congress to co-operate with him during his first two years in office, anyway.

They profess confidence of their ability to put a G. O. P. majority into the house of representatives, and that they can do it if they get votes enough. The senators' terms expire, however, only one-third at a time. And the Democrats' present senatorial margin of advantage is so wide that, though the Republicans are successful in winning every senate seat at stake this year, the Democrats still will have a small majority.

If Wilkie and McNary are winners, the G. O. P. will have the vice presidential vote to rely on whenever a senate election occurs, but it isn't likely that there'll be any. On the contrary, a heavy shrinkage in their majority probably will consolidate the surviving Democrats. There have been rather too many of them for their party's own good through-out the Roosevelt administration, because an excess of one side's numbers, in a body like the United States senate, encourages insubordination.

Wendell then, assuming his presidential election, is due to have at least the first half of his first term, in all probability, rendered some-thing of a worry to him by an unmanageable upper congressional chamber. It will be 1942 at the earliest, before he can get it Republicanized.

Quite An Undertaking It will be quite an undertaking for the G. O. P. to gain control of the house of representatives in November, let alone electing Wilkie and McNary, it's a distinct possibility.

As previously remarked, it isn't even a possibility in the senate's case.

In fact, the possibility of Republican victories in all of this year's senatorial elections is only theoretical. The G. O. P. may make quite a few gains, but it's a million-to-one that they don't scoop in everything.

For instance, Democratic senators' terms are expiring, at the end of 1940, in such states as Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. Who'd bet that all these commonwealths will go Republican?

G. O. P. strategists are making some pretty tall claims to be sure. They point out that Wilkie clubs are being organized all over the south. They contend that Wendell and McNary will chalk up surprisingly all over Dixie. They actually predict that they'll beat Senator Tom Connally in the Lone Star state. But nobody's staking any money on it.

Other states where the Democrats are up for senatorial re-election in November are Arizona, Connecticut, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming and Utah.

It's conceivable that the G. O. P. will make some captures up and down this list.

Perhaps, for example, Wilkie, as an ex-Hoover (and he's capitalizing it for all it's worth), might defeat Senator Minton, by sweeping a Republican in on his coat-tails.

Republicans are in the race in only seven states—California, Delaware, Maine, Michigan, New Jersey, North Dakota and Vermont. It's a fair guess that they'll stay there.

Also a couple of mavericks are in the contest—Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Laborite) of Minnesota and Senator La Follette (Progressive) of Wisconsin. The Republicans have an eye in those seats likewise. They're not such bad Republican gamblers; the G. O. P. has been making decided gains lately, especially in Minnesota.

Can't Get 'Em All The fact remains that Wilkie and McNary can't imaginably drag Republicans in with 'em in all those senatorial contests.

Their 1940 task is to register enough Republicans to enable them to Republicanize the senate in 1942. And they'll have to hustle to do that. If they don't, accomplish it, they'll have a Democratic senate to deal with clear until the 1944 election.

And, even if they're elected, the senate will be Democratic for two years anyway.

In a fashion it'll be worse for McNary than for Wilkie. Wilkie, if elected, will be separated from the recalcitrant senators by the length of Pennsylvania avenue. McNary'll be trying to preside over 'em.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

At a dinner company the other night every person present turned thumbs down on politicians, at least on modern politicians. Someone cited Themistocles and Pericles and others of the ancients as true masters of the art of politics, and considered that our pork-barrel politicians were shabby tricksters compared with these others.

One guest offered quite a learned and elaborate explanation of the degeneration of politics in an increasingly complex society. Another guest, who had said nothing, asked the host if he might recite a poem. He said the poem was written by the Chinese poet Su Shih, sometimes called Su Tung-po, who lived from 1036 to 1101 A. D. Here's the poem.

On the Birth of a Son Families when a child is born Hope it will turn out intelligent. I, through intelligence, Having wrecked my whole life. Only hope that the baby will prove Ignorant and stupid. Then he'll be happy all his days. An grow into a cabinet minister.

We were reminded that any age afflicted with self pity, and with what it considers special afflictions, urgencies, down and general bedevils, will find most preceding ages similarly afflicted, yet somehow life has gone on. Old Su Shih was not altogether a "cynic." He found an antidote in beauty. Our friend quoted another poem of Su Shih's called "Flower Shadows". It ripples along as follows:

Thick lie the shadows of the flowers on the floor of the jasper pavilion.

Many times I told the little boy but he does not sweep them away.

No sorrow does the setting sun remove them.

Thou a bright moon comes and throws them down again.

You may find beauty and diversion in "Sunday in the Park," or in tuna fishing in Florida, or scaling the cliffs of Yosemite, or feeding the birds of the Yellowstone, or in the shadows of the flowers on the floor of your own suburban pavilion. In this country, it's our own fault if we don't find at hand more balm to the troubled spirit than old Su Shih ever dreamed of, and it doesn't matter whether you're rich or poor. Vacation time in America lifts the curtain on unbelievable wonders, excitements and beauty, whether you view them from a jolopy or a super-special.

Another thought: This dinner company said the world situation was so dreadful that all we could do was to leave it to Providence. Someone recalled the reply of a Wall Street broker when he was urged to pray to God for deliverance. "The trouble is," said the broker, "that God takes such a long view."

If, this coming August, we were broke in Death Valley, without so much as an air-conditioning plant or a Tom Collins, the short view wouldn't look so good. But we aren't—at least not most of us—and we have a get-away from war and politics which makes the short view look a lot better than it might otherwise. It might seem that Providence had arranged all these forecasts, streams, lakes and mountains for those who felt the need of living today, rather than in some less attractive arcady of the past or millennium of the future. In other words, "See today first" and "See America first."

That first wry little poem of Su Shih's shows that he wasn't fooling himself and that he knew the facts of life. But he didn't miss the flower shadows on the floor of the jasper pavilion... He saw China first.

Dairy Queen Contest To Feature Picnic

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of district unit "G" of the D. C. S. A., consisting of Ira Beahm, C. E. Reed, F. J. Cooper and N. E. Sampson, it was decided to conduct a dairy queen contest Tuesday, August 20, in conjunction with the district dairymen's picnic to be held on that date at Grove City Memorial Park.

The contest will be one of several similar elimination contests conducted throughout the state for the purpose of selecting a dairy queen to reign over the national dairy show when it opens in Harrisburg this year, October 12-19.

The Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association, in co-operation with the other dairy organizations in the state, to make this selection will hold a semi-final contest later in Pittsburgh where the winners of the district contests will compete for the privilege of representing the D. C. S. A. in the final state-wide contest to be held at State College, Pa., in September.

In anticipation of the keen competition which is sure to develop, the State Dairymen's Association in drawing up rules for the contest has designated that the contestants shall be selected on the following points: Knowledge of the dairy industry; attainment in vocational and scholastic work, and personal appearance.

The District "G" contest is open to any unmarried daughter of a D. C. S. A. member between the ages of 17 and 21 who is a high school graduate. Applications will be received until August 1.

The picnic will be the second such picnic held in this district and promises to be an interesting and pleasant event for all dairymen of this district who attend.

Heavy Shower Hits Heat Wave

Extreme Heat Of Past Five Days Is Checked This Morning By Rain

Rain, which threatened throughout the night, finally fell in a heavy shower at 8:30 o'clock this morning, checking the extreme heat, which has gripped the district since last Thursday, and which culminated in what seemed to be the hottest day of the heat wave yesterday, when the mercury rose to 93 degrees.

It was still warm after the rain, but cloudy skies kept the temperature down to a more comfortable point, and more rain was indicated later in the day.

Late Monday afternoon, a thunderstorm swept across the county, traveling in a northwest to southeast direction, missing part of the city, although the reverberations of the thunder could be plainly heard.

According to the weather observing station here, the total precipitation this morning was .38 inches, ending the dry spell which has been prevalent for the greater part of the month.

Plan Mass Meeting On Collection Of Delinquent Tax

Junior Chamber Of Commerce To Sponsor Meeting It is Announced

The New Castle Junior Chamber of Commerce last night voted to sponsor a mass meeting "within the next 10 days" to obtain an opinion of the citizenry relative to the Board of Education's current collection of delinquent 1931-1936 per capita school taxes.

President Earl C. Ruby at a regular meeting, at City Hall, appointed Presley N. Jones, past president of the junior chamber, as chairman of the committee to reserve a public hall and set a date for the meeting.

Chairman Jones indicated the junior chamber's attitude toward the collection when he said: "We want to sound out the public on this tax collection. We're (the junior chamber) definitely opposed to the school board's method of collection."

Several industrial reports were given to the junior chamber last night.

Mother And Child Found In River At Youngstown

Identified As Struthers, O., Residents By Grief Stricken Husband

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 23.—A grief stricken husband late Monday cleared up the mystery of the identity of the bodies of a woman and a child found floating in the Mahoning River here at noon Monday. Anthony Leonbruno, a steel worker in Struthers, recognized the river's victim as his wife, Agnes, 32, and his two-year-old daughter, Theresa.

The little girl, her hand still clutching a rag doll, and her mother were taken from the river as hundreds of persons watched on downtown streets.

Leonbruno made the identification at South Side Hospital. He said his family was all right when he went to work this morning. Coroner David H. Hauser viewed the bodies but gave no verdict immediately.

A railroad worker reported seeing the woman and child walking on the track near the bridge over the river shortly before passers saw the bodies in the stream and pulled them out before police and firemen arrived.

AROUND CITY HALL

Ralph A. Criswell, acting chief of police, today stated he has in his possession a man's Elgin wrist watch, which Henry Ruha, under arrest, told the chief he found Saturday night in South Jefferson street near the Public Square. Ruha who was charged with intoxication is being held until ownership of the watch is learned.

One Panama nickel, one Canadian nickel, several Canadian dimes and 63 pennies were among the $730.00, placed in parking meters by motorists during the past 10 days parking period, according to Collier McKibben, attaché of the city treasurer's office. Canadian nickels fetch the city only three cents when turned into a bank, he stated. Pennies will not work a meter. Mike Meldner, service operator, today stated that meter 521, North Mercer, was stolen last night.

Several score applications for new sidewalks have been presented to the city treasurer. Before any sidewalk is laid money for the materials must be paid, he stated.

Heavy Shower Hits Heat Wave

Extreme Heat Of Past Five Days Is Checked This Morning By Rain

Rain, which threatened throughout the night, finally fell in a heavy shower at 6:30 o'clock this morning, checking the extreme heat, which has gripped the district since last Thursday, and which culminated in what seemed to be the hottest day of the heat wave yesterday, when the mercury rose to 93 degrees.

It was still warm after the rain, but cloudy skies kept the temperature down to a more comfortable point, and more rain was indicated later in the day.

Late Monday afternoon, a thunderstorm swept across the county, traveling in a northwest to southeast direction, missing part of the city, although the reverberations of the thunder could be plainly heard.

According to the weather observing station here, the total precipitation this morning was .38 inches, ending the dry spell which has been prevalent for the greater part of the month.

Plan Mass Meeting On Collection Of Delinquent Tax

Junior Chamber Of Commerce To Sponsor Meeting It is Announced

The New Castle Junior Chamber of Commerce last night voted to sponsor a mass meeting "within the next 10 days" to obtain an opinion of the citizenry relative to the Board of Education's current collection of delinquent 1931-1936 per capita school taxes.

President Earl C. Ruby at a regular meeting, at City Hall, appointed Presley N. Jones, past president of the junior chamber, as chairman of the committee to reserve a public hall and set a date for the meeting.

Chairman Jones indicated the junior chamber's attitude toward the collection when he said:

"We want to sound out the public on this tax collection. We're (the junior chamber) definitely opposed to the school board's method of collection."

Several industrial reports were given to the junior chamber last night.

Nomination For Third Term Is Strongly Scored

ZION, Ill., July 23.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic church who has been in the news off and on for years, today said he considers President Roosevelt's nomination for a third term "one of the greatest blows ever struck at democracy."

Voliva said the president by his silence kept other candidates out of the nomination field, and added: "Hitler and Mussolini could not have done a better job."

The religious leader in the past has figured widely in the news because of his assertions that the earth is flat and predictions concerning the end of the world.

Mother And Child Found In River At Youngstown

Identified As Struthers, O., Residents By Grief Stricken Husband

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 23.—A grief stricken husband late Monday cleared up the mystery of the identity of the bodies of a woman and a child found floating in the Mahoning River here at noon Monday.

Anthony Leonbruno, a steel worker in Struthers, recognized the river's victim as his wife, Agnes, 32, and his two-year-old daughter, Theresa.

The little girl, her hand still clutching a rag doll, and her mother were taken from the river as hundreds of persons watched on downtown streets.

Leonbruno made the identification at South Side Hospital. He said his family was all right when he went to work this morning. Coroner David H. Hauser viewed the bodies but gave no verdict immediately.

A railroad worker reported seeing the woman and child walking on the track near the bridge over the river shortly before passers saw the bodies in the stream and pulled them out before police and firemen arrived.

No, sir, we mustn't be undemocratic and conscript our free boys for training. We'll wait, as usual, and let them die while learning.

'Croton Boys' Town' Is Model For Other Cities, Rotary Told

"Croton Boys' Town," Croton's answer to that age-old problem of what to do with idle boys, has become a model for similar youth organizations in several western Pennsylvania cities, John G. Rubels, director of the project, told New Castle Rotarians at their weekly luncheon yesterday in The Castleton. Speaking on "Youth Organizations," Rubels, who said that the Croton movement was the result of 20 years of thinking and planning, reported that Erie has developed seven "Boys' Towns" along identical lines. Erie first sent men here to inspect the project. In the Croton organization, the boys run things. Members elect their own officials and the officials manage things. Rubels told the clubmen that a "Girls' Town" also operates, but it isn't talked about so much. Program Chairman James W. Moorehead introduced the speaker.

Roof Garden In Philadelphia Is Scene Of Blaze

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Shooting flames and smoke high into the sky, a two-alarm fire this afternoon swept the roof garden of the Lorraine hotel, nine floors above the heavily-traveled intersection of Broad street and Ridge avenue, just north of mid-town Philadelphia. The flames were discovered at noon and attracted thousands of shoppers and workers on their lunch hour to the scene. They watched as firemen, handicapped by low water pressure due to the lack of a fire hydrant in the vicinity, fought the blaze by the city's fifth consecutive day of excessive heat, lugged hoses up five fire escapes. Of the 125 guests, now registered at the hotel, those in the structure escaped without injury. The blaze originated in the kitchen of the ballroom on the roof garden, apparently due to a short-circuit. It had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by an employee. The extent of the damage was not immediately determined, but J. J. Shafer, the manager, pointed out that in addition to the flames, water which poured down elevator shafts and stairways caused additional thousands of dollars damage.

Jenkins Concludes His Endurance Run, Sets Many Records

(International News Service)
BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, July 23.—A new 24 hour endurance speed record of 161.18 miles per hour average was set today by Mayor Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City. The old record he established in 1937 was 157.27 miles per hour average. Completing the gruelling grind which began at 6:33 a. m. (MST) yesterday, Jenkins achieved another milestone in his long racing career. He rolled his faithful 1934 Ford Meteor III into the pits on the 24 hour dot and officials told him he had set a new world mark. During the 24-hour grind, which he shared with Cliff Berger, Hollywood driver, 18 speed records were broken. The two daredevils whirled the mighty racing machine over three different circular courses on the famous saline flats at speeds ranging up to 190 miles per hour. Jenkins, holder of more than 100 automobile speed records, and Berger maintained a blistering pace all day yesterday and all last night over the heat-softened salt beds but no mechanical trouble developed with the car. Two battery changes had to be made at the 20 hour mark but the pit crews were so trained that most repairs and changes were made in less than a minute. Every speed record between the 50 mile mark and the 4,000 kilometer mark was broken in the daring run of $3,868.43 miles.

Roof Garden In Philadelphia Is Scene Of Blaze

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Shooting flames and smoke high into the sky, a two-alarm fire this afternoon swept the roof garden of the Lorraine hotel, nine floors above the heavily-traveled intersection of Broad street and Ridge avenue, just north of mid-town Philadelphia. The flames were discovered at noon and attracted thousands of shoppers and workers on their lunch hour to the scene. They watched as firemen, handicapped by low water pressure due to the tax placed on it by the city's fifth consecutive day of excessive heat, lugged hoses up five fire escapes.

Of the 125 guests, now registered at the hotel, those in the structure escaped without injury. The blaze originated in the kitchen of the ballroom on the roof garden, apparently due to a short-circuit. It had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by an employee. The extent of the damage was not immediately determined, but J. J. Shafer, the manager, pointed out that in addition to the flames, water which poured down elevator shafts and stairways caused additional thousands of dollars damage.

Jenkins Concludes His Endurance Run, Sets Many Records

(International News Service)
BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, July 23.—A new 24 hour endurance speed record of 161.18 miles per hour average was set today by Mayor Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City. The old record he established in 1937 was 157.27 miles per hour average.

Completing the grueling grind which began at 6:33 a. m. (MST) yesterday Jenkins achieved another milestone in his long racing career. He rolled his faithful Mormon Meteor III into the pits on the 24 hour dot and officials told him he had set a new world mark. During the 24-hour grind, which he shared with Cliff Bergere, Hollywood driver, 18 speed records were broken. The two daredevils whirled the mighty racing machine over three different circular courses on the famous salt flats at speeds ranging up to 190 miles per hour. Jenkins, holder of more than 100 automobile speed records, and Bergere maintained a blistering pace all day yesterday and all last night over the heat-softened salt beds but no mechanical trouble developed with the car. Two battery changes had to be made at the 20 hour mark but the pit crews were so trained that most repairs and changes were made in less than a minute.

Every speed record between the 50 mile mark and the 4,000 kilometer mark was broken in the daring run of $3,868.43 miles.

National Grange Head Advocates Militant Handling Of Trouble Makers

EASE AND LUXURY KILL DEMOCRACIES

By J. ALLISON BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, O., July 23.—Louis J. Taber, National Grange Master, has his own formula for handling "fifth columnists" and American residents whose sympathies lie with Nazi, Fascist or Communist ideologies.

"If people want to speak in favor of Communism, Nazism or Fascism, let them talk," Taber said in an interview here, "then let us put them on a boat and send them back to the land whence they came."

"The nationally-known farm leader also believes that every 'real American' should unite behind a national defense program that would make the United States impregnable to attack from either the Atlantic or Pacific oceans."

Taber believes that the down-fall of France and other Democracies at the hands of dictators was due largely to the fact that their peoples attempted to lead a "life of ease and luxury" while other nations were building up their military machines.

Wants Adequate Defense
"Not only for the United States, but for the Western world the first and foremost problem is that of adequate defense and preparedness to hold our own in the months and years ahead," Taber contended.

"We must be strong in the air, on the sea and upon the land. There must be efficient and immediate coordination of our whole program of making America so strong that no dictator will ever dare to insult the ensign of this Republic."

"To attain that goal, Taber believes every American must be ready to make sacrifices immediately and for as long a period as necessary."

"It is time to proclaim a strenuous life," Taber continued. "It must be a discipline to be lazy, careless, indifferent, or a profiteer, in the struggles ahead. The disloyal must be treated as America's most dangerous criminal."

"A strenuous program for national defense and an awakened spirit of sacrifice on the part of all will not be enough. Every individual in America, through taxation and other sacrifices, must contribute his full part to preserving the institutions that are ours."

Help The Underprivileged

To make America strong, Taber contends that the nation must cure its economic ills, raise farm prices and encourage farm and home ownership, especially among underprivileged persons.

"The lessons of war tell us that we must give the underprivileged a third chance," Taber explained. "We must fling open the doors of opportunity, but in doing so, we must not destroy that great middle sector who are the makers and builders of civilization."

"It has been the middle class in every age in history that has been the stabilizing force. Whenever a nation is composed of only the very rich and the very poor, that nation is on the road to destruction."

"Let us challenge the contractors, skilled workers, labor leaders and real estate operators, and government officials, to make it more profitable to build a home. Let us put the unemployed back to work."

"Let us develop teamwork between finance, labor and agriculture, and let us march forward in a relentless program that will make us strong in morale, in soul and in purpose."

National Grange Head Advocates Militant Handling of Trouble Makers

EASE AND LUXURY KILL DEMOCRACIES

By J. ALLISON BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, O., July 23.—Louis J. Taber, National Grange Master, has his own formula for handling "fifth columnists" and American residents whose sympathies lie with Nazi, Fascist or Communist ideologies.

"If people want to speak in favor of Communism, Nazism or Fascism, let them talk," Taber said in an interview here, "then let us put them on a boat and send them back to the land whence they came."

The nationally-known farm leader also believes that every "real American" should unite behind a national defense program that would make the United States impregnable to attack from either the Atlantic or Pacific oceans.

Taber believes that the down-fall of France and other Democracies at the hands of dictators was due largely to the fact that their peoples attempted to lead a "life of ease and luxury" while other nations were building up their military machines.

Wants Adequate Defense
"Not only for the United States, but for the Western world the first and foremost problem is that of adequate defense and preparedness to hold our own in the months and years ahead," Taber contended.

"We must be strong in the air, on the sea and upon the land. There must be efficient and immediate coordination of our whole program of making America so strong that no dictator will ever dare to insult the ensign of this Republic."

To attain that goal, Taber believes every American must be ready to make sacrifices immediately and for as long a period as necessary.

"It is time to proclaim a strenuous life," Taber continued. "It must be a disgrace to be lazy, careless, indifferent, or a profiteer, in the struggles ahead. The disloyal must be treated as America's most dangerous criminal."

"A strenuous program for national defense and an awakened spirit of sacrifice on the part of all will not be enough. Every individual in America, through taxation and other sacrifices, must contribute his full part to preserving the institutions that are ours."

Help The Underprivileged

To make America strong, Taber contends that the nation must cure its economic ills, raise farm prices and encourage farm and home ownership, especially among underprivileged persons.

"The lessons of war tell us that we must give the underprivileged a third chance," Taber explained. "We must fling open the doors of opportunity, but in doing so, we must not destroy that great middle sector who are the makers and builders of civilization."

It has been the middle class in every age in history that has been the stabilizing force. Whenever a nation is composed of only the very rich and the very poor, that nation is on the road to destruction.

"Let us challenge the contractors, skilled workers, labor leaders and real estate operators, and government officials, to make it more profitable to build a home. Let us put the unemployed back to work."

"Let us develop teamwork between finance, labor and agriculture, and let us march forward in a resistless program that will make us strong in morale, in soul and in purpose."

BAD SPRAIN CAUSE MORE PAIN THAN ACTUAL BREAK IN BONE

Footwear for children today mostly takes the form of oxfords. This style may be all right during most of the year, but in summer when they are in camp, romping around over rough ground, jumping out of trees and doing a bit of climbing, I rather like the old-fashioned high shoe.

I say this because I see so many sprained ankles each summer. Children will run and play, and if the terrain is rough they are all the happier. It is quite easy under these circumstances, to turn an ankle, particularly if the child is wearing low shoes that give no support to the ankle.

Sprained ankles seem to go with summer camps. I should know—this section of the country is right in the heart of summer camping areas.

Ordinarily, a sprained ankle occurs when a person steps on something that causes the foot to be turned in suddenly and unexpectedly. The body isn't ready for the sudden wrench, and it has to time to go with the foot. The muscles, tendons and ligaments on the outside are badly stretched, or, in the case of bad sprains, torn loose altogether. When this happens, the ankle swells rapidly, and any weight put on the foot causes excruciating pain. People who have had both a sprain and a break will tell you that the former is the more painful of the two. I have no reason to doubt him.

If anyone in the family, child or adult, sprains an ankle, or any joint for that matter, a doctor should be called at once. That is because there may be a danger that the end of the bone, on the outside of the ankle, may have been pulled off in the accident.

Unfortunately, at this time of year, when so many people are away in summer camps and cottages, a doctor isn't always handy. It may be some hours before medical aid can be summoned, or the victim taken to a doctor's office. Yet something should be done for that ankle right away. The most effective measure is to bind the ankle securely in adhesive tape, so as to relax the muscles that have been strained and torn.

Following are the directions for binding a sprained ankle so as to give relief to the patient until the doctor comes:

Take a strip of half-inch or one-inch adhesive tape, about twenty inches long. Attach one end to the inside of the leg four to six inches above the foot. Then bring the adhesive down, underneath the instep, around and up the outside of the leg, keeping the tape taut all the time. This should pull the ankle to the outside, and relax those strained, injured tendons. Three more strips of adhesive, the same size, should be applied the same way. Then three smaller strips should be put around the leg, to bind the long strips and keep them from slipping.

If you follow these instructions carefully, you will be doing a lot to help the injured ankle to heal, for sometimes injury is done to sprained joints after the accident.

Tomorrow—Broken Bones.

America is concerned with National defense.

Americans should also consider health defense.

This is a matter of education.

Health education is not medical education.

Health is complicated and there is no simple procedure.

The physician may be able to do much for his patient.

Yet there are things each person must do for himself.

The parent must assume responsibility for the child.

What of the child's food, rest, habits, recreation?

Pupils in school are found with many health defects.

Parents must educate themselves to offset such disorders.

Health defense is the first line of defense—make it strong.

Plan To Start Repaving Hill

North Mercer Street Job To Get Under Way Wednesday

Two city-WPA projects, both badly needed, will get under way Wednesday, according to Municipal Engineer G. R. Throop. One is the repaving of North Mercer street hill and the other the construction of new sidewalks. North Mercer street carway will have a middle width of 20 feet concrete and on each side a width of five feet of bituminous material. Sidewalk construction will cost the property-owner 14 cents per square foot, Throop explained.

TOLEDO, O.—This calls for an explanation. George Pappavlahodimitrakopoulos, in explaining how he acquired his moniker, said, it consisted of a series of names. Pappa is one name; Vlaho is another. Dimitrak comes from one wing of the family; Poulous is from another. Born in Greece, he was naturalized under the name of Vlahakis, and when he married he decided to keep his marriage a secret and used the name Vine. Put them all together and you have Pappavlahodimitrakopoulos.

Plan For United Action Of American Republics Given

Secretary Hull Outlines Plan

American Republics Are Warned Of Totalitarian Menace Now Faced

MUST UNITE FOR COMMON DEFENSE

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, July 23.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull on Monday called upon the 21 American republics to stand united against the menace of European dictatorships and proposed a far-reaching program of economic-political co-operation for the western hemisphere.

Addressing the emergency conference of American nations in the Cuban capital, Hull warned that it would be "suicidal" if the 21 republics failed to "meet fully and decisively" the threat from abroad.

Program Outlined
Pledging the financial and economic aid of the United States, Hull outlined to the conference delegates a program calling for:

1. A broad economic plan for orderly marketing of western hemisphere products, embracing commodity agreements and co-operative efforts in the stabilization of monetary and exchange;

2. Decisive action against "fifth column" activities within the 21 American nations, and;

3. Temporary control of foreign possessions in the western hemisphere by means of a joint American trusteeship.

Even as Hull outlined the program, President Roosevelt was laying the groundwork in Washington to win acceptance of the first point. The chief executive sent a special message to Congress asking that the capitalization of the export-import bank be increased by $500,000,000.

and that certain restrictions be lifted to enable the bank "to be of greater assistance to our neighbors south of the Rio Grande, including financing the handling of orderly marketing of some part of their surpluses."

Danger Looms
Hull, in his speech, pointed directly to the totalitarian powers.

"Looming ominously on our horizon is the danger that attempts may be made to employ against our nations, too, the same means of subordinating their destinies to control and dictation from abroad that have already been notoriously employed elsewhere against numerous other countries," the secretary asserted.

"We must recognize the serious possibility that no effort or method may be spared to achieve, with respect to some of us, economic domination and political penetration, and to sow, among our nations, the seeds of suspicion, dissension and discord—the frequent prelude to even more menacing action."

"It has been increasingly clear that in the vast tragedy which has befallen large portions of the earth there are dangers to the American nations, as well, which it would be suicidal not to recognize in time and not to prepare to meet fully and decisively."

Must Band Together
While contending that peace among nations can be insured only through the free flow of trade, Hull conceded that because of the war the American republics necessarily must band together, economically, in the present emergency.

He suggested a four-point plan for immediate economic co-operation. This included creation of facilities for the temporary handling and orderly marketing of accumulated surpluses which are of primary importance to the economic life of the 21 nations. Commodity agreements are proposed to assure equitable terms of trade for producers and consumers of the commodities concerned.

Expansion of the activities as instrument for continuing consultation was another point in the plan. Relief distribution of some part of the surplus commodities, public health measures and nutrition studies also were suggested.

Hull noted that the United States already has lent its co-operation to a number of Latin-American countries by assisting them in monetary and foreign exchange matters. This was done through existing agencies in the United States.

"The United States is now taking steps which will make possible the extension of both the volume and character of the operations of such agencies," Hull continued. "When these steps have been completed, the government of the United States will be in a position to expand its co-operative efforts with other American nations in the fields of long term development and of monetary and exchange matters."

Motor Patrolmen Greet Visitors At State Line

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 23.—Pennsylvania's traditional friendliness and helpfulness to visitors is further extended this summer to out-of-state motorists by specially selected and trained state motor policemen who are greeting all incoming motor cars at a dozen major points of entry, said Richard P. Brown, secretary of the state department of Commerce, today.

"Through the assistance of Col. Lynn G. Adams, motor police commissioner, and Lieut. Col. C. M. Wilhelm, deputy commissioner," said Mr. Brown, "these officers are presenting to the operator of each out-of-state automobile a copy of the new pictorial and official road map, 'You Can Drive Round the World in Pennsylvania,' published by the department of Commerce."

"In addition the officers are giving to visiting motorists a copy of the Motor Police bulletin 'To Our Visiting Motorists,' which explains highway rules and regulations, and another bulletin on information pertaining to the New York World's Fair."

"That this assistance is appreciated is shown by the large number of commendatory letters received by both the motor police headquarters and the department of commerce."

Location of these hospitality posts are: Routes 22 and 40, near the West Virginia state line; Routes 422, 224, 30, and 20, near Ohio; Routes 11, 15, and 1, near Maryland; Routes 220 and 11, near New York State; Route 13, near Delaware.

Typical of the commendatory letters is this one from the secretary to the mayor of Haverhill, Mass., who writes:

"I don't know whether the pleasant manner of the officer or the friendly thought behind the idea was more pleasing to me, a stranger making my first visit to the state. But I think it is a fine idea to have these men stationed as they are at points of entry. Certainly the trooper was an excellent emissary for the Commonwealth."

people can use the parking lot on Sundays. We are glad to be of service to them."

Examiner Norman Dilley of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission held forth in court room number two Monday morning hearing applications for transportation licenses and also hearing protests against them.

Judge Thoms W. Dickey held a short session of court Monday morning, hearing a habeas corpus petition. The room was so warm that shirt sleeved justice would have been in more comfortable form than the prescribed coats.

Furniture has been installed in the new jury-room back of the law library. The work on the second floor is not quite through but will be shortly.

Brownmiller Will Appeal Conviction To Supreme Court

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 23.—Counsel for former State Highways Secretary Roy E. Brownmiller are preparing to appeal to the State Supreme Court from his conviction on charges growing out of the Democratic campaign charges investigation.

The State Superior Court on Friday dismissed the appeals of Brownmiller, convicted of payroll padding charges in Luzerne county during the administration of former Gov. George H. Earle, and of James P. Kirk and Victor Skok, Pittsburgh insurance men, convicted of conspiracy in connection with state-bonding business in Western Pennsylvania.

Appeal of Brownmiller, who was sentenced to one year and fined $3,000, was to be filed with the prothonotary's office at Harrisburg by J. Dress Pannell, attorney.

U. S. ARSENAL IN PHILADELPHIA IS AT PEAK OUTPUT
(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Its former antiquated machinery replaced by modern mass-production equipment, the Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia is working close to capacity these days in desperate race to arm America.

Almost a half-million rounds of small-arms ammunition leave the arsenal daily by freight car and truck. Thousands of brass cases to be filled with high explosives are turned out of the machine shops in the same period.

From the arsenal's fire-direction department come scores of pieces of fire-control equipment ranging from simple telescopic sights to awe-some-looking anti-aircraft directors.

All these implements of war are rushed into being through the miracles of mass production—a system which includes shortcut processing unknown during the First World War. One "short cut," for example, permits manufacture of three-inch anti-aircraft shells at an unprecedented pace.

If seed is to be saved for a new England, the kids must be taken beyond the range of bombers. And we'll never outlive our shame if we don't send ships for them in time.

$300,000,000 In State Funds Safe From Theft

Pennsylvania Securities Are Well Protected Against Assault By Thieves

SIX WALLS OF STEEL IN VAULT

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 23.—One of the greatest treasure troves in the world is located just to the rear of the State Capitol—but burglars would think twice before attempting to rifle it.

It is the vault of the state treasury, filled with $300,000,000 in securities, located in the newly-completed five and one-half million dollar state finance building.

A glimpse behind the scenes in the Pennsylvania state treasury discloses that this treasure is well-guarded. The securities are located in an ultra-modern vault of stainless steel, said to be the only one of its kind in the world. The vault was built into the basement of the new Capitol building at a cost of $600,000.

Access to the vault may be had only through vestibules and corridors carefully barred by gates and doors, the walls studded by tear gas jets controlled from several strategically located positions.

Here is what the burglars would have to contend with if they attempted to burglarize Pennsylvania's treasury vault:

"Taking it for granted that no yeggman would brave the barred passages, tear-gas defenses and gun ports, attackers upon the vault would first have to penetrate a 24-inch concrete wall, reinforced by five layers of steel mesh.

They would then meet up with an inner vault made up of six composite panels, four of which are open heart, six-ply laminated steel. The remaining two panels were especially incorporated in the vault to balk the threat of oxy-acetylene attacks by yeggmen.

If the would-be burglars of the state treasury ever reached the fifth panel protecting the inner vault and turned oxy-acetylene torches upon it, they would meet up with a highly-disagreeable surprise. The heat of the torches would affect a chemical plate which gives off a noxious gas when attacked by flame, a gas said to be so penetrating that no gas mask now in use affords protection against it.

The sixth panel is made of a metal which is said to be practically flame-proof. It is known as Infratite, a non-burning metal which carries off heat so rapidly that a concentration sufficient to cut it away is practically impossible.

Revolving door weighing 110 tons affords main access to the vault. It is eight feet high and 96 inches in diameter. Despite its huge size it can be closed and locked within 15 seconds.

Inside the vault, complete ventilating, lighting and telephone service are maintained. A wide center aisle, running from the revolving door at the front to an emergency door at the rear, divides the inside of the vault. On either side of the aisle are three compartments, each divided by a steel grille. Each compartment contains strong boxes into which the state's securities are placed for safe-keeping.

An ingenious system of mirrors also guards the vault. Full-length mirrors are placed at each corner of the passageway which surrounds the outside of the vault. This enables guards to stand inside the vault when it is opened and see around the entire structure.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

HARRISBURG, July 23.—The bituminous mine disaster near Portage in which 63 miners lost their lives was keenly felt by Governor James, the first ex-coal miner to sit in the chief executive's chair in Pennsylvania. Governor James knew from personal experience just what it meant for men to be trapped deep underground. He recalled vividly, he said, as a boy, a mine disaster in his home town and the gloom which settled over the entire community.

Paying the commonwealth's bills is a task which requires an average of 87,500 checks every working day of the year or a grand total of more than 22,000,000 annually, the state treasury reveals. Expenditures represented by these checks totaled nearly $673,000,000 in 1939.

Heaviest demand for checks comes from payment of state relief. During 1939, relief checks alone totaled more than 52,000 every business day, or a total of 13,128,000 during the year. Direct relief payments since May 1937, the state treasury disclosed, reached $203,140,000 and required nearly 28,000,000 checks, a daily average of 41,500 checks. General operating expenses during the same period amounted to $1,372,807,000.

One of the busiest men at the Democratic national convention at Chicago was one of Governor James' cabinet officers. He was Secretary of Welfare Arthur Sweeney, who attended the convention as a reporter. Mr. Sweeney is publisher of a Greensburg, Westmoreland County, newspaper. He acted in the same capacity at the Republican convention, also as a delegate.

The old trees that grace beautiful Capitol park are receiving medical attention. Thirty-nine of the large trees surrounding the State Capitol are now being treated by a tree expert company whose services were contracted for by the state department of property and supplies.

Pennsylvanians played important parts at both national conventions as members of the resolution or platform committees. At the Republican convention, former Senator George Wharton Pepper was an important member, while at the Democratic convention former Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy was very active.

Auditor General Warren R. Roberts, chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation at Chicago, told the convention when the Keystone State's name was called during the roll call of states for nominations: "Give us Roosevelt and we'll give you Pennsylvania." Senator Guffey was selected as one of the five delegates picked by Convention Chairman Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky to notify Roosevelt of his nomination. "In the event he hasn't heard of it yet."

Cubs Banking On Zeke Bonura

Chicago Cubs Hopeful That Zeke's Big Bat Will Drive In Plenty Of Runs

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service

NEW YORK, July 23.—The strange case of Big Zeke Bonura, the Anthony Adverse of first basemen, is back in the headlines today. Unhappily never quite settled anywhere because of his entirely original and too often ineffective fielding, but always employed for his batting power, Bonura is the Chicago Cubs' yesterday adds just a few additional miles to his major league travels. He is the perpetual last resort of managers.

In this particular instance, the Cubs have the lions of a first division finish in the National League race, but without a first baseman to help them stay there since Glenn Russell and Phil Cavarretta have been lost. Probably for the season. Outfielder Hank Leiber has been filling in for a few days, but is such a poor bargain there that even Bonura seems to be an improvement.

Joins Cubs Today
The big fellow from New Orleans joined his new mates at Boston today to begin the Cubs' eastern tour. This day the saga of Bonura goes on—from the Chicago White Sox, to the Washington Senators to the New York Giants, back to the Senators last spring and thence to the Cubs as of today, significance of the situation being that while nobody wants him somebody always gets him. Bonura, who is a poor bargain for the time being as the clubs flat-out on for the stretch run.

If Bonura can aid the Cubs at all—and he very well might with his bat—it will make for a still tighter race in the National League. The Cubs and the Chicago White Sox, the Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers seem to have the first two places served up tight, but the New York Giants have no assurance that they can hold third place over the fourth place Cubs.

Bonura Can Hit
And if Bonura should get the Cubs up there by getting hot for a score or so of games, it would be another ironic twist to the fortunes of the Giant's manager Bill Terry. He had Bonura only last season, and not only found the big fellow in spring training for this season. Terry figured Babe Young would do, and Bonura, after a long dispute over a big cut in his pay envelope, wended his weary way to the Senators. His average for the year to date is .273 and he packs extra base punch something, sorely needed by the Cubs.

The most interesting thing about it all will be whether the Cubs finish ahead of the Giants and, if so, how big a part Bonura will play in the Cubs' drive.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Years ago in Youngstown there was a lout employed in a barroom named Joe. He had aspirations of some day being a ring fighter. In some day being a ring fighter. In some day being a ring fighter.

They're talking of sending Billy Conn against Joe Louis in September. The Pittsburgh crowd would not so like to send Fritz Zivic against Henry Armstrong. With Mike Jacobs' monopoly on all the title-holders it isn't probable that any city, except where Sir Miguel decides, will get top-notch fights. His offerings have not been making the tills sag with the weight of money. The "wash-outs" excepting the Jenkins-Armstrong affair, haven't provided fans with even-even fights. One of the boys who now should get a break is Tony Zale. He's at the lake in Youngstown. Al Zill. He put in Zale upon several occasions before Tony won the NBA title, hence the possibility of Zale continuing his business relations with Zill.

Several days ago this column carried a story about the Three Lenrys. Two of them Dick and Tom, now are passing as active ring performers. However, their younger brother, Eddie, an ex-amateur, likewise Billy Sperry, fought before more than 3,000 fans in Wilkes-Barre and Eddie received a lacing according to the Wilkes-Barre Record.

Fritz Zivic stopped Leonard Bennett of Detroit in the fourth round with a solar plexus blow in Chicago last night. Big John Gee has not yet reported to Albany whence he was ordered by the Pirates to report. Art Clark, Undertaker, was at the Fox Chapel Golf club yesterday where the Tri-State Pro golfers' tourney is under way. His score was five under par.

Pinkie George, Des Moines, will give Billy Conn a guarantee of $20,000 to fight his heavyweight, Lee Savold, in Des Moines. Conn's next bout is with Bob Pastor, who ought to give Billy plenty to think about when they meet. Lew Jenkins will move into Philadelphia to take on Bob Montgomery, colored, August 19. There was no boxing show last night in Pittsburgh because Frankie Williams, scheduled foe of Carmen Notch, couldn't fight because of boils.

With large galleries looking on, City-County Independent Baseball League aggregations staged four exciting games Monday night. One of the biggest crowds of the season watched Pulaski and West Side A. C. locked horns in a 5-5 deadlock on Lee avenue field. Stewart's was home in the fifth after hitting a triple with the sacks clogged, highlighted the West Side attack. Biddle clubbed out three bingles for Pulaski. Vincent whacked a triple for Pulaski.

W. Side 000 050-5 4 2

CASTLEWOOD HITS HARD
Lathering the offerings of DeFelice and Lauro, Castlewood routed St. Margarets 14-4, at Castlewood. After crossing the plate five times in the first two frames, Castlewood chalked up seven more runs in the third. Powell, B. Henderson and B. Newton each garnered two hits for the winners. Quarto was credited with two safeties for the losers.

Batteries—Saints, DeFelice, Lauro and Denny; Castlewood, Johns and King.

HILLS WALLOPS BOARD
Making good use of eight hits and five runs, South Hills pummeled the South Side Board of Trade nine, 10-1, at South Hills. The Hills club took a commanding lead in the opening chapter, scoring four times. Pallerino and Brooks spearheaded the winners attack. Benny (Jumbo) Gleason swatted a triple for the Board aggregation.

COAL MINERS TRIM WHITE SOX

Brent was in a hitting mood Monday and whopped the Wampum White Sox 12 to 2 at Brent in a Lawrence league clash. The Coal Miners amassed 14 hits off K. Price, Hackett and Scherrel. They scored four runs in the first, a half dozen in the second and pushed two more tallies across in the fifth frame. The White Sox got their scores in the third and fifth innings.

Rico hit a triple. Johns, Ryder, Wardman and Stone came through with hits each good for a pair of bases. Caulfield, Stone and Pearson broke into the stolen base column. No other Lawrence County Baseball scores were submitted.

Surf Fishing And Bathing Draw Many To Presque Isle

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 23.—Surf fishing and surf bathing—and you need not go to the seashore for these sports.
The Pennsylvania Department of Commerce reminds you that both may be had in fresh water at Presque Isle at Erie, which is attracting larger numbers of persons than ever before.
Surf fishing may be enjoyed in the inlets and the bays but for the most part in the favorite spots along the lake where the sweeping waves of the lake wash the shore.
Sport with battling smallmouth and largemouth bass, game fish of the fresh water, is in prospect for hundreds of anglers who plan to fish in the lake. The season opened June 15, and closes November 30. Because of the variety afforded by the fishing in Lake Erie off the Pennsylvania shoreline this splendid fresh water angling today rivals and, to many, surpasses fishing in salt water, the State Department of Commerce reports. So popular has it become that boat hiremen on the lake in the vicinity of Erie report a rush for boat hire seldom, if ever, exceeded previously. Boats of every size and description may be had off-shore or deep-lake fishing.
From the angle of variety the fisherman who seeks his sport in the lake stands a fair chance of taking into a muskellunge, often termed the "tiger of fresh water," and excellent opportunity of catching wall-eyed pike or pike perch. Sunfish, yellow perch, calico bass, grass pike and rock bass are other species that tend to enliven a day at Lake Erie.
One of the most successful methods of taking fish in the lake, it is pointed out, is by trolling and also live bait fishing. Early season fishing is regarded as excellent. To fish in the Pennsylvania section of the lake a regular Pennsylvania fishing license, resident, non-resident or three-day tourist license is required.

Sports World Ramblings

Some sports trivia to read in a cool nook—Here's one that really happened in Peoria: With a runner on first and nobody out the pitcher glanced around to see if his mates were in position. He was amazed to note an enemy player comfortably crouched behind second base. The stray player was asked to explain what he was doing on the field. The manager told me to get out and coach second base. I'm obeying orders," was the retort.

Scribblers are missing a lot of sleep in the hope of ascertaining what has happened to baseball. The diamond sport actually is behaving like football, so far as the outcomes are concerned. The boys who play it on the line are in a fog. They're simply puzzled. From this corner, we'd say that pitching is throwing the monkey wrench in the machine.

Aside from those two no-hitters checked in by Bob Feller and Tex Carleton, the record books show 18 other tiffs which were two hitters or less. Derringer of Cincy missed the perfect job twice. Hubbell of the Giants pegged a single hitter since as did Sid Hudson of the Senators. Then there are still 14 two-hitters and a flock of three and four-hit games.

Pitching is as important as it ever was. But, for some unknown reason, a lot of Joes are making it rough. Manuel Salvo, for instance, couldn't do much in the International Cup with the Eagles. Salvo is closer than two sheets of paper. Cy Blanton, the ex-Firats, is another standout case. Carrasquel, another International loop sponge, returned to the Senators and has bagged four triumphs. These are only a few cases.

Here's something few fans know: "Babe" Ruth's real name is George Herman Gerhardt. His surname was changed when Ruth was an inmate of St. Mary's Industrial school, Baltimore. He is listed as the leading slugger among pitchers in baseball history. As a Red Sox pitcher for five seasons, "Babe" summited out 49 homers, 30 triples and 81 doubles. In 1919, the year before he became Yankee property, Ruth pushed his batting meter to the .322 mark.

Milwaukee of the American Association is now being piloted by Ray Schalk, for White Sox star. Milwaukee nose dived to the cellar berth and Wilson (Mickey) Heath resigned. During his first two years stay with Cincinnati, Buckey Walters has pitched 54 complete games. "Lefty" Grove claims Bob Kennedy, White Sox star, is the best throwing third sacker he has ever seen.

Cubs Banking On Zeke Bonura

Chicago Cubs Hopeful That Zeke's Big Bat Will Drive In Plenty Of Runs

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 23.—The strange case of Big Zeke Bonura, the Anthony Adverse of first basemen, is back in the headlines today. Unhappily never quite settled anywhere because of entirely original and too often ineffective fielding but always employed for his batting power, disposal of him by the Washington Senators to the Chicago Cubs yesterday adds just a few additional miles to his major league travels.

He is the perpetual last resort of managers. In this particular instance, the Cubs have visions of a first division finish in the National League race, but without a first baseman to help them stay there since Glenn Russell and Phil Cavarretta have been lost. Probably for the season. Outfielder Hank Leiber has been filling in for a few days, but is such a poor bargain there that even Bonura seems to be an improvement.

Joins Cubs Today
The big fellow from New Orleans joined his new mates at Boston today to begin the Cubs' eastern tour.

Thus does the saga of Bonura go on—from the Chicago White Sox, to the Washington Senators to the New York Giants, back to the Senators last spring and thence to the Cubs as of today, significance of the situation being that while nobody wants him somebody always gets him sooner or later. Also, this deal probably closes out any transfers for the time being as the clubs flat-out for the stretch run.

If Bonura can aid the Cubs at all—and he very well might with his bat—it will make for a still tighter race in the National. The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers seem to have the first two places served up tight, but the New York Giants have no assurance that they can hold third place over the fourth place Cubs.

Bonura Can Hit
And if Bonura should get the Cubs up there by getting hot for a score or so of games, it would be another ironic twist to the fortunes of the Giant's manager Bill Terry. He had Bonura only last season, and not only found the big fellow leading all the Giants in hitting at the end of the season with a .321, but would have no part of Bonura in spring training for this season. Terry figured Babe Young would do, and indeed he did, but after a long dispute over a big cut in his pay envelope, wended his weary way to the Senators.

His average for the year to date is .273 and he packs extra base punch something, sorely needed by the Cubs.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Years ago in Youngstown there was a lout employed in a barroom named Joe. He had aspirations of some day being a ring fighter. In fact, he was prone to practice punches and grappling holds upon inebriates. In the same days there was a rather lonesome youth here known as Young Buffalo, also with pugilistic hopes. Being called upon to witness Joe of Youngstown in one of his tantrums Chauncey Davis succeeded in matching Joe, who was given the name "Diamond Joe" (because he worked at the Diamond Bar) with Buffalo in Humbert Hall. Diamond Joe strutted into the ring cockily. Had he not won all his fights? He assuredly had. However, he lasted only a few rounds with Buffalo. The punching he received took all the conceit out of "Diamond Joe" who later gave up his duties as Protector of the Bar and Man-mauler of Inebriates.

Young Buffalo figured in several other incidents. He was looked upon as a likely prospect and Jack Hopper was brought here. "Pretty good looking boy," said an older man to a fan in Humbert Hall. "Yes, but you don't know Buffalo," was another's response. "Betcha he wins," again said the older. "Don't believe he will" replied the New Castle man. The fight went on and before it ended Buffalo was defeated. The oldest stood up, turned to his fellow fan and informed "That boy who won; well, he's my son!" Buffalo later took on Buck Bradshaw here. Buck, tough six foot six inch and a lad who liked to fight for the love of fighting, couldn't get a pair of fighting shoes sufficiently large to fit him in the Cascade park ring. He trod the ring awkwardly and this coupled to a sock from Buffalo, cost him the fight. Later, Jack Pink, an experienced ringster puts Buffalo hors de combat in the Opera house when one of Buffalo's hands was broken.

One night Eddie Ward, Farrell, now prohibition vigilante, offered the writer a neat sum to second Young Heneman (or Menahan), of Farrell in a Youngstown ring. The writer accompanied by Jimmie Dime and Eddie Weygant got into Dime's car and rolled toward Youngstown. Some water in the gas caused quite a delay and the trio got into Rayen-Wood auditorium in time to see one of two combatants upon the floor, and then hear the bell end the round. "Who's upon the floor?" we inquired of a policeman. The bluecoat replied Henahan or (Menahan). Weygant and the writer eloped into the corner, dragged the prostrate fighter to a corner, doused him with water, slapped him vigorously and broke a couple of ammonia capsules beneath his nose and soon had him ready to answer the next bell. However, the referee stopped him from going out. While arguing with the referee Ward appeared with a snarl. "Nice gang? Offer you $100.00, to handle my fighter and you bring the other fellow, too. Nice crew!" It took some time to explain that previously neither ever had seen his boxer.

Eddie Meade, manager of Henry Armstrong, matched Jimmy Hackley against Maxie Strub here because Hackley had sent Tony Herrera twice to the floor in Indiana. This was quite a feat when Herrera was going good. "Is Hackley a six-footer?" we inquired Meade. "Yes, he is as tall as Strub" was the glib reply of Pat Eddie. Not being at the weighing in, we didn't see Hackley but at 7 p. m., Jimmie Dunn came around and warned: "I don't want to say much but you had best look at Hackley. He's upstairs in the Leslie. We saw a runt-sized fellow, probably not over 5 feet four seated at a desk. 'Are you Hackley?' was the query. 'Yes, I'm Hackley' was the answer. Nothing more was said. We pictured the fight then as it would and did turn out—a straight left to the face followed by a right to the jaw. "Who made that match?" was the din from the crowd.

And talking about that din which always followed matches in which the aroma was not any too pleasant could be heard one voice above the others. Usually, it was directed at Jimmie Dunn, the baldish boy from Cleveland. Finally one night we sneaked around the bowl to see who was ring-leading the mob. Imagine to find half-way up the bleachers a gang of Dunn's friends yelling and the leader of the din, no less a personage than Dunn's good friend, Doc McCann.

Talking of riots: one ensued following the Battling Terry-Tommy Jones battle in the Humbert hall and expectation of a stampede arose when Bernie Hahn and Patsy Branigan (who visited here Sunday) milled in the theater at Cascade Park. A storm put the lights out of commission. Suddenly in the dark came a shriek: "I'm stabbed! Fortunately the lights came on and the attaches of the fight learned it was Wilbur Anderson of Cleveland, in a spirit of fun uttered the shriek.

Every time Willie Davies fought here his sister also fought—that is, she went through the motions although she had no opponent. She was strong on advice to Brother Willie. Whenever plagued by other fans she was triggerish with her repartee. When Wee Willie was going good here (he never went better any other place) she was a college student. Later Davies became an instructor of boxing at Pitt.

They're talking of sending Billy Conn against Joe Louis in September. The Pittsburgh crowd would also like to send Fritz Zivic against Henry Rrmstrong. With Mike Jacobs' monopoly on all the title-holders it isn't probable that any city, except where Sir Miquel decides, will get topnotch fights. His offerings have not been making the tills sag with the weight of money. The "wash-outs" excepting the Jenkins-Armstrong affair, haven't provided fans with even-even fights. One of the boys who now should get a break since Tony Zale beat Al Hoshtak is Youngstown Al Zill. He put in Zale upon several occasions before Tony won the NBA title, hence the possibility of Zale continuing his business relations with Zill.

Several days ago this column carried a story about the Three O'Learys. Two of them Dick and Tom, now are passe as active ring performers. However, their younger brother, Eddie, an ex-amateur, likewise Billy Speary, fought before more than 3,000 fans in Wilkes-Barre and Eddie received a lacing according to the Wilkes-Barre Record.

Ernie Zivic stopped Leonard Bennett of Detroit in the fourth round last night in a fight in Chicago last night. Big John Gee has not yet reported to Albany whence he was ordered by the Pirates to report. Art Clark, Uniontown, was medalist with a 141 on the Fox Chapel Golf club yesterday where the Tri-State Pro golfers journey is under way. His score was five under par.

Pinkie George, Des Moines, will give Billy Conn a guarantee of $20,000, to fight his heavyweight, Lee Savold, in Des Moines. Conn next joust is with Bob Pastor, who ought to give Billy plenty to think about when they meet. Lew Jenkins will move into Philadelphia to take on Bob Montgomery, colored, August 19. There was no boxing show with a solar plexus blow in Chicago last night. Frankie Willis, scheduled foe of Carmen Notch, couldn't fight because of boils.

Large Crowds See City-County Games

With large galleries looking on, City-County Independent Baseball League aggregations staged four exciting games Monday night. One of the biggest crowds of the season watched Pulaski and West Side A. C. lock horns in a 5-5 deadlock on Lee avenue field. Stewart's steal of home in the fifth after hitting a triple with the sacks clogged, highlighted the West Side attack. Biddle clubbed out three bingles for Pulaski. Vincent whacked a triple for Pulaski.

MILT ARON WINS

At Garfield, N. J., Gus Lesnevich, Cliffside Park, N. J., outpointed Wally Sears, Minersville, Pa., in 10 rounds; at Chicago, Milt Aron, 151, Chicago, defeated Saverio Turiello, 148, Italy, in 10 rounds, and at San Francisco, Fred Apostoli, 162, San Francisco, knocked out Dale Sparr, 160, Nevada, in five rounds.

CROTON ALL-STARS WIN

The Croton All-Stars defeated the Valentinos at Hickory Heights field 13 to 3, with Albert "Handsome" Malley pitching, a no-hitter. Mico helped Malley by making a nice running catch of a hard hit liner. This was the third win for the All-Stars. For games with Croton call 1772-W and ask for John.

JOHNSON BRONZE WINS

The Johnson Bronze team went to Youngstown Sunday and defeated the Ritz team 11 to 2. Len Turco featured with a homer and triple. The winning pitcher was Sammy Pezzone, the loser was Koswawco. The Bronzes had one big inning the sixth when they tallied ten runs.

Surf Fishing And Bathing Draw Many To Presque Isle

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 23.—Surf fishing and surf bathing—and you need not go to the seashore for these sports.

The Pennsylvania Department of Commerce reminds you that both may be had in fresh water at Presque Isle at Erie, which is attracting larger numbers of persons than ever before.

Surf fishing may be enjoyed in the inlets and the bays but for the most part in the favorite spots along the lake where the sweeping waves of the lake wash the shore.

Sport with battling smallmouth and largemouth bass, game fish of the fresh water, is in prospect for hundreds of anglers who plan to fish in the lake. The season opened June 15, and closes November 30.

Because of the variety afforded by the fishing in Lake Erie off the Pennsylvania shoreline this splendid fresh water angling today rivals salt water, and to many, surpasses fishing at Lake Erie.

Graham To Head Effort For G. O. P.

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, July 23.—Efforts will be made to raise a substantial fund in Grove City to help with the Republican Presidential election in November. Frank Graham has accepted the chairmanship of the drive for funds in the borough and surrounding townships, and it is believed that a quota of $1600 will be readily subscribed.

Mr. Graham held a meeting with local members of the Mercer County Republican Committee, and was given enthusiastic promise of support. Instead of a few large contributions, Mr. Graham is hopeful of obtaining small amounts from every registered Republican. The borough and townships are now being organized, with workers pledged to call upon every member of the party.

Predictions are being freely made that not only will the quota be reached, but that Grove City Borough will give Willie better than a 5-to-1 majority in November.

TEES FOR THREE

At Yonkers, N. Y., a water tower marks the spot where the first golf tee in this country was located. Early niblick fans, however, found the pasture was too hilly for golf and abandoned what might have been America's first golf course after only three holes had been laid out.

MORE CUSTOMS TRAFFIC

(International News Service)

MONTEREY, Cal.—For the first time in 70 years the United States Customs Service flag again is flying over Monterey's historic Customs House—built by the Spaniards in 1814.

The adobe structure is the building over which Commodore Sloat first raised the American flag when the United States took possession of California. In recent years, it has been utilized as a state museum.

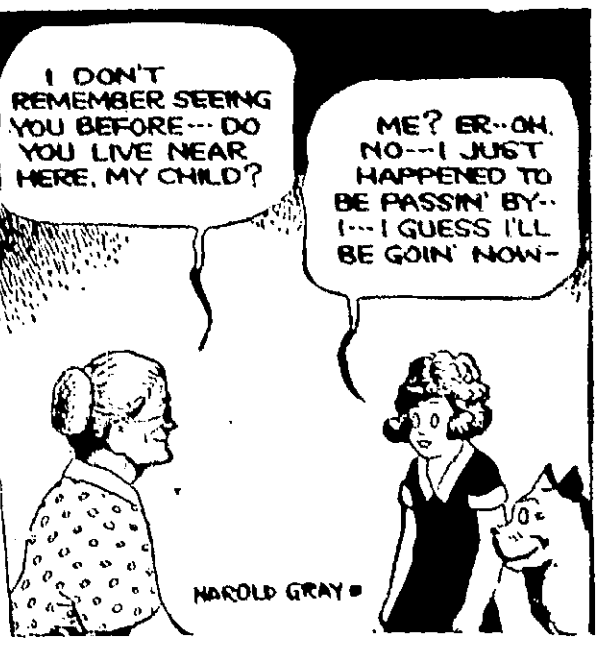

Increased customs business resulted in the re-appointment of a full-time customs inspector for the first time since 1871.

FROM ME TO YOU

BY MESSEALL

As we travel over the highways of this grand land of ours we think about that British chap who said that the United States had beautiful scenery, but so much of it is tucked behind billboards—truer words were never spoken... there is some control of billboards but not enough to really amount to anything over the United States.

Here is one way to tell a woman's age... she is a member of the older generation if she can't remember mother ever complaining because the grocer's bread wasn't sliced... My how times have changed.

Being always on the lookout for something about the colleges... we find that an eastern college now offers a complete course in orchestra work... that would probably mean that a student would graduate cum lauder. It might not be so good but it has its points.

When you get to know a fellow, Know his every mood and whim, You begin to find the texture Of the splendid side of him.

You begin to understand him, And you cease to scoff and sneer, For with better understanding All prejudices disappear.

You begin to find his virtues, And his faults you cease to tell, For you seldom hate a fellow When you know him very well.

Be careful these warm days... don't over eat... too much sun is bad too. Remember the M. D. is your friend... don't wait until you are almost dead before seeing him... a wise man keeps himself well by obeying simple health laws.

North China Has Not Lost Trade

Commerce With United States Continues Despite Difficulties

NINE MILLIONS IS 1939 BUSINESS

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEKING, China — Nine million dollars worth of North China products flowed to the United States during 1939 despite the Sino-Japanese War, a disastrous flood, and the aggravating Japanese military blockade of Tientsin's foreign concessions, it was revealed by Consul General William Caldwell.

Japanese military restrictions on freedom of purchase and transport of products in the interior, Japanese economic obstacles imposed on foreign trade by the provisional government at Japanese behest, and the grave difficulties of moving goods and personnel back and forth through the miles of Japanese barbed wire and numerous sentry posts about the British and French concession at the port of Tientsin, failed to hold back this export trade with the United States which reached $9,222,033 last year.

The lowly Chinese black pig scored heaviest in sending its by-product through all the barriers, natural, wartime and economic, when it sent to American brush makers bristles worth $3,031,977.

Goats, dogs and lambs died in North China to provide furs worth $1,444,641.

Sheep from the Inner Mongolian plain and the war torn areas inside the Great Wall yielded sufficient wool for manufacturers to produce Chinese rugs worth $650,448.

For the American hot dog stand and kitchen, there were exported sausage casings worth $368,721, and egg products of a value of $367,906. Walnuts of North China, the best variety in the world, attracted American buyers to the extent of $305,450.

Hair from horses and cattle accounted for another $248,448 among the American purchases from Tientsin in 1939, while unmanufactured wool from camels, goats and alpaca came to $284,216.

Little Demand For Wine Chinese wine from North China appears to have little appeal for American palates since Consul General Caldwell announced shipments of but $1,684.

Local barbers clipped the black hair from Chinese heads to supply $41,849 for American manufacturers, while an additional $117,737 worth of hair nets made from human hair is included in the total exports from Tientsin.

Despite this $9,222,033 in export business to the United States from the very much badgered North China port, Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson and Consul General Caldwell, as well as the Japanese Commander in Chief, Lt. General M. Homma, listened to frantic pleas from American business at the end of the year. They appealed for loosening of barrier restrictions and withdrawal of severe economic obstacles to an even more flourishing trade with the U. S. for 1940.

U. S. Law Delays Planned Departure Of Duke And Wife

(International News Service)
LISBON, Portugal, July 23—America's neutrality law is delaying the departure of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor for Nassau, Bahamas Islands, where the Duke is slated to take up his new post as governor, it was disclosed today.

The former British monarch and his American-born wife want to make the trip across the Atlantic by American clipper plane and the hitch is that he holds a commission as a major-general in the British army. Because of this commission, under the neutrality law, he is barred from travelling aboard an American plane.

Circles close to the Duke revealed that he is waiting an exemption from this ruling, but is prepared, if necessary, to resign his commission temporarily, resuming it upon arrival in the Bahamas.

Many Young People Visit Playground At N. Y. A. Center

Equipment At Site Has Been Repaired — Community People Are Welcome

Since repair work on the playground equipment at the Crawford-Oakridge N. Y. A. Resident Work Center was started several weeks ago, many young people visit the playground each night.

The playground immediately adjoins the property of the N. Y. A. Center and is open to the young people of the community. According to Mrs. Rose Simonis, resident director for the Center, several trained workers are on hand at the playground at all times to work with the children and safeguard them.

Equipment at this playground, it will be remembered, was moved a number of years ago from the old Carnegie playground on South Jefferson street. The swings, sliding boards, bars and other equipment is all set in concrete at the present site.

Concert Planned Week From Friday

According to Paul D. Weller, chairman of the music committee of the Seventh Ward Civic club, a WPA Civic Orchestra concert will be presented in the ward a week from Friday, on August 2. Many people are under the impression that the concert is this week, but that is incorrect.

The summer series will be the third in the summer series, sponsored by the Civic club. It will be held at the Liberty street park, corner of Darlington avenue and North Liberty street.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Quite a crowd of Mahoningtown people make daily trips to the Shengango river in the vicinity of the East Cherry street bridge, in an endeavor to get away from the heat. An ideal swimming place is located just below the bridge.

Repairs were made Monday afternoon to the approach to the East Cherry street hill where it intersects with the West Pittsburgh road. Heavy traffic of the past week caused several holes to develop in the road surface.

Recently erected flag pole at the Cedar street electrical sub-station is daily topped with a large American flag. The flag is plainly visible not only from Cedar street, but from North Liberty street and the West Pittsburgh road.

A new lighted sign has been erected in front of the N. Y. A. Center on Atlantic avenue, just at the entrance to the driveway. The sign reads, "Crawford-Oakridge NYA Resident Work Center."

SCOUTS AT CAMP
This week, 10 Boy Scouts from Mahoningtown Troop 4, are camping at Lawrence County's camp, Camp John M. Phillips. All members of the Beaver Patrol, and members of various other troop groups are in the party.

Start To Pour Viaduct Cement

All Of Old Flooring Has Been Removed Ready For New Surfacing

While vehicle traffic is still being detoured around the Mahoning avenue viaduct, good progress is being made on the re-flooring job, and the bridge will probably be opened again before long.

All of the old flooring on the span has been removed to make way for the new bridge surfacing. Workmen have started to pour concrete on one end of the bridge, and other workmen are constructing wooden forms to hold the concrete base on other portions of the viaduct.

G. H. Colnot Is Given Promotion

Local Manager Of Armour's Plant Is Sent To Youngstown Branch

Gilbert H. Colnot, manager of the New Castle branch of Armour & Co. since 1935, today was promoted to the management of the Youngstown branch, one of the largest Armour operations in the company's Pittsburgh district.

He takes his new position Thursday, July 25.

With news of Colnot's advancement came word that Glen C. Dalton, assistant manager here for the past four years, will become the new manager here.

Dalton's assistant manager's post will be assumed by Gilbert H. Colnot Jr., who is being transferred here from the Armour plant at Olean, N. Y.

Colnot, active in club and church affairs, for many years, became the local manager when Rudolph Stadelhofer retired in 1935. For a number of years prior to that he had been assistant manager.

The Colnots expect to take up residence in Youngstown. They resided here at 910 Rose avenue.

In Third Week At Camp Phillips

Interesting Activities Being Enjoyed By Boy Scouts In District Camp

The Scouts are now on their third week of camp life at Camp John M. Phillips. Next week will be the last week of camp for the season and reservations are coming in fast.

The timely arrival of one of the camp counselors halted what promised to be a very spectacular piece of showmanship. One of the boys tried to emulate the passe college boy fad of swallowing a live gold fish, although a minnow had been secured in the absence of the more aristocratic goldfish.

Doubling bystanders had raised a purse of 35 cents to be paid if and when the minnow was down, but the counselor who make a habit of being in the right place at the right time saved the fish and the money was returned to the disappointed spectators.

A class of 10 Scouts are spending two hours a day studying for the Junior Red Cross Life Saving examination, under the direction of Harvey Miller, waterfront director of Pittsburgh. One hour is spent daily in oral instruction after which the second hour is spent in the water. The scouts who are taking this course are madly in search of shirts that button down the front. Each is required to be able to remove his clothes while in the water and polo shirts are difficult to pull off.

The amphitheatre is now wired and the new path leading to the outdoor theatre makes it an ideal campfire site.

North Beaver Grange Members Will Hear Dr. B. H. Demit During Program

North Beaver Grange will observe the 25th anniversary of its founding in the Grange Hall, Friday evening, July 26, at 8:15 o'clock when a program of exceptional merit will be presented.

The grange was organized February 5, 1915, by the late George Dean Sr., who was then state deputy.

A special invitation has been extended to all charter members and Past Masters of the North Beaver Grange, and it is expected that the majority of them will be present for the occasion.

Dr. B. H. Demit, of Indiana State Teachers College former member of the Slippery Rock faculty, and a man greatly interested in grange work, will be the guest speaker.

Misunderstanding Cause Of Wreck Probers Learn

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 23—A preliminary investigation of the Pennsylvania railroad wreck at Millvale early yesterday in which one fireman was killed and another injured showed today that two freight engines sideswiped each other through a "misunderstanding" of the train crews.

G. M. Sixsmith, Conemaugh division superintendent, reported: "This doesn't seem to be a case of a faulty switch or signal. It looks more like a misunderstanding."

W. E. Kruse, 42, Turtle Creek, was killed, and R. M. Lester of Oakmont, was injured when a 62 car ore train was sideswiped by a shifting engine, causing both engines to overturn and derailling six cars of the ore train.

A more thorough investigation will be made today, Sixsmith said.

"LONDON LEGION" BEING ORGANIZED BY AMERICANS

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 23—A P. Buquor, military inventor, today organized a "London Legion" composed entirely of Americans.

The legion, which has been given official British recognition, is an all-American, volunteer mobile defense unit, equipped with tommy guns, fast cars and machine bombs.

A recruiting office was opened and Americans in London were reported flocking to join the new unit. Another recruiting office will be opened in Canada.

Commander of the legion is Brig-Gen. Wade Hayes, who was attached to the staff of Gen. John J. Pershing, former American expeditionary force commander-in-chief in 1918.

The "Yankee invasion" of Alaska began about 1790 and from that time on Governor Baranof complained frequently that the Americans were continually outbidding him for furs and taking the cream of his trade.

Mack Questions Ruling Of Ump

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—One of those rare occasions when genial Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, disputes an umpire's ruling took place during Sunday's double-header.

Connie blew up when base umpire Lou Kolls called a balk on Nelson Potter during the fourth inning of the second game. Still boiling at the end of the inning, the leader summoned plate umpire Bill Sommers to the A's dugout.

"Is it a rule now that any umpire can call a balk?" demanded Connie.

"Yes, Mr. Mack, it is," replied Sommers.

"Well, that's a darn good rule," observed Connie. Calmly he added: "Let's stick to it."

North China Has Not Lost Trade

Commerce With United States Continues Despite Difficulties

NINE MILLIONS IS 1939 BUSINESS

By JOHN GETTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEKING, China.—Nine million dollars worth of North China products flowed to the United States during 1939 despite the Sino-Japanese War, a disastrous flood, and the aggravating Japanese military blockade of Tientsin's foreign concessions, it was revealed by Consul General William Caldwell.

Japanese military restrictions on freedom of purchase and transport of products in the interior, Japanese economic obstacles imposed on foreign trade by the provisional government at Japanese behest, and the grave difficulties of moving goods and personnel back and forth through the miles of Japanese barbed wire and numerous sentry posts about the British and French concession at the port of Tientsin, failed to hold back this export trade with the United States which reached $9,222,083 last year.

The lowly Chinese black pig scored heavily in sending its by-product through all the barriers, natural, wartime and economic, when it sent to American brush makers bristles worth $3,031,977.

Goats, dogs and lambs died in North China to provide furs worth $1,472,023.

Valuable Straw Exports
North China farmers, ignoring battles between Japanese and Chinese troops as well as the frequent clashes between guerrillas and the Japanese in their backyards, grew straw for export to the United States of a value of $1,444,641.

Sheep from the Inner Mongolian plain and the war torn areas inside the Great Wall yielded sufficient wool for manufacturers to produce Chinese rugs worth $650,448.

For the American hot dog stand and kitchen, there were exported sausage casings worth $368,721, and egg products of a value of $367,906. Walnuts of North China, the best variety in the world, attracted American buyers to the extent of $305,456.

Fats from horses and cattle accounted for another $248,448 among the American purchases from Tientsin in 1939, while unmanufactured wool from camels, goats and alpacas came to $284,216.

Little Demand For Wine
Chinese wine from North China appears to have little appeal for American palates since Consul General Caldwell announced shipments of but $1,684.

Local barbers clipped the black hair from Chinese heads to supply $41,849 for American manufacturers, while an additional $117,737 worth of hair nets made from human hair is included in the total exports from Tientsin.

Despite this $9,222,083 in export business to the United States from the very much badgered North China port, Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson and Consul General Caldwell, as well as the Japanese Commander in Chief, Lt. General M. Homma, listened to frantic pleas from American business at the end of the year. They appealed for loosening of barrier restrictions and withdrawal of severe economic obstacles to an even more flourishing trade with the U. S. for 1940.

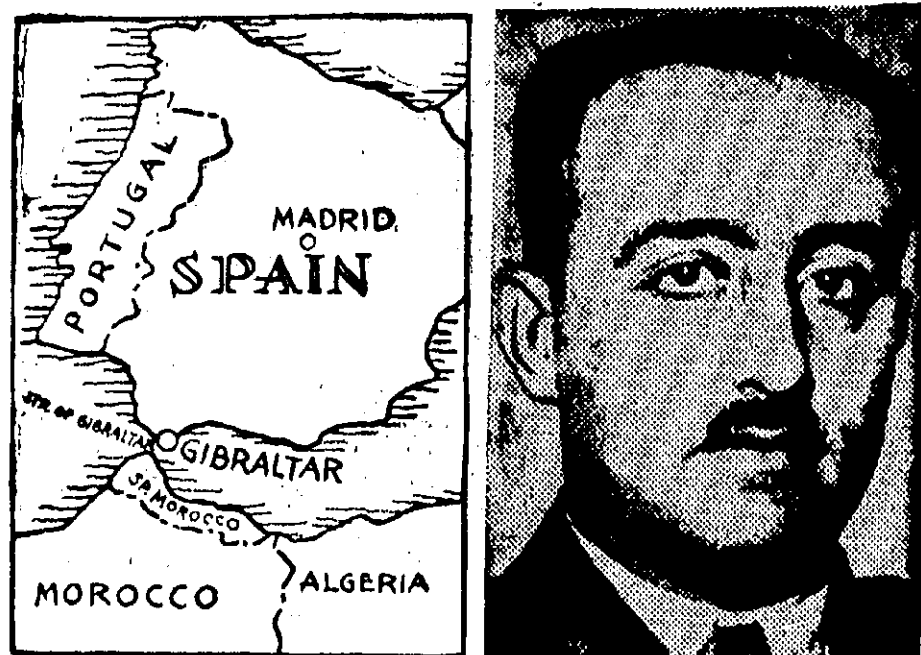

U. S. Law Delays Planned Departure Of Duke And Wife

(International News Service)
LISBON, Portugal, July 23.—America's neutrality law is delaying the departure of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor for Nassau, Bahamas Islands, where the Duke is slated to take up his new post as governor. It was disclosed today.

The former British monarch and his American-born wife want to make the trip across the Atlantic by American clipper plane and the hitch is that he holds a commission as a major-general in the British army. Because of this commission, under the neutrality law, he is barred from traveling aboard an American plane.

Circles close to the Duke revealed that he is waiting an exemption from this ruling, but is prepared, if necessary, to resign his commission temporarily, resuming it upon arrival in the Bahamas.

Equipment At Site Has Been Repaired — Community People Are Welcome

Since repair work on the playground equipment at the Crawford Park, N. Y. A. Resident Work Center was started several weeks ago, many young people visit the playground each night.

The playground immediately adjoins the property of the N. Y. A. Center and is open to the young people of the community. According to Mrs. Rose Simons, resident director for the Center, several trained workers are on hand at the playground at all times to work with the children and safeguard them.

Equipment at this playground, it will be remembered, has moved a number of years ago from the old Carnegie playground on South Jefferson street. The swings, sliding boards, bars and other equipment is all set in concrete at the present site.

Concert Planned Week From Friday

According to Paul D. Weller, chairman of the music committee of the Seventh Ward Civic club, a WPA Civic Orchestra concert will be presented in the ward a week from Friday, on August 2. Many people are under the impression that the concert is this week, but that is incorrect.

The concert will be the third in the summer series, sponsored by the Civic club. It will be held at the Liberty square park, corner of Darlington avenue and North Liberty street.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Quite a crowd of Mahoningtown people make daily trips to the Shenango river in the vicinity of the East Cherry street bridge, in an endeavor to get away from the heat. An ideal swimming place is located just below the bridge.

Repairs were made Monday afternoon to the approach to the East Cherry street hill where it intersects with the West Pittsburgh road. Heavy traffic of the past week caused several holes to develop in the road surface.

Recently erected flag pole at the Cedar street electrical sub-station is daily topped with a large American flag. The flag is plainly visible not only from Cedar street, but from North Liberty street and the West Pittsburgh road.

A new lighted sign has been erected in front of the N. Y. A. Center on Atlantic avenue, just at the entrance to the driveway. The sign reads, "Crawford-Oakridge N.Y.A. Resident Work Center."

Start To Pour Viaduct Cement

All Of Old Flooring Has Been Removed Ready For New Surfacing

While vehicle traffic is still being detoured around the Mahoning avenue viaduct, good progress is being made on the re-flooring job, and the bridge will probably be opened again before long.

All of the old flooring on the span has been removed to make way for the new bridge surfacing.

Workers have started to pour concrete on one end of the bridge, and other workers are constructing wooden forms to hold the concrete base on other portions of the viaduct.

Local Manager Of Armour's Plant Is Sent To Youngstown Branch

Gilbert H. Colnot, manager of the New Castle branch of Armour & Co. since 1935, today was promoted to the management of the packing firm's Youngstown branch, one of the largest Armour operations in the company's Pittsburgh district.

He takes his new position Thursday, July 25.

Dalton's assistant manager's post will be assumed by Gilbert H. Colnot Jr., who is being transferred here from the Armour plant at Olean, N. Y.

In Third Week At Camp Phillips

Interesting Activities Being Enjoyed By Boy Scouts In District Camp

The Scouts are now on their third week of camp life at Camp John M. Phillips. Next week will be the last week of camp for the season and reservations are coming in fast.

The timely arrival of one of the camp counselors halted what promised to be a very spectacular piece of showmanship. One of the boys tried to emulate the passe college boy of swallowing a live gold fish, although a minnow had been secured in the absence of the more aristocratic gold fish.

Doubting bystanders had raised a purse of 35 cents to be paid if and when the minnow was down, but the counselor who make a habit of being in the right place at the right time saved the fish and the money was returned to the disappointed spectators.

A class of 10 Scouts are spending two hours a day studying for the Junior Red Cross Life Saving examination, under the direction of Harvey Miller, waterfront director of Pittsburgh. One hour is spent daily in instruction after which the second hour is spent in the water. The scouts who are taking this course are madly in search of shirts that button down the front. Each is required to be able to remove his clothes while in the water and polo shirts are difficult to pull off.

The amphitheatre is now wired and the new path leading to the outdoor theatre makes it an ideal campsite site.

Misunderstanding Cause Of Wreck Probers Learn

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 23.—A preliminary investigation of the Pennsylvania railroad wreck at Millvale early yesterday in which one fireman was killed and another injured, showed today that two freight engines sideswiped each other through a "misunderstanding" of the train crews.

G. M. Sixsmith, Conemaugh division superintendent, reported: "This doesn't seem to be a case of a faulty switch or signal. It looks more like a misunderstanding."

W. E. Guse, 42, Turtle Creek, was killed, and R. M. Lester of Oakmont, was injured when a 62 car ore train was sideswiped by a shifting engine, causing both engines to overturn and derailing six cars of the ore train.

A more thorough investigation will be made today, Sixsmith said.

"LONDON LEGION" BEING ORGANIZED BY AMERICANS

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 23.—A. P. Buquor, military inventor, today organized a "London Legion" composed entirely of Americans.

The legion, which has been given official British recognition, is an all-American, volunteer mobile defense unit equipped with tommy guns, fast cars and mills bombs.

A recruiting office was opened and Americans in London were reported flocking to join the new unit.

Another recruiting office will be opened in Canada.

Commander of the legion is Brig. Gen. Wade Hayes, who was attached to the staff of Gen. John J. Pershing, former American expeditionary force commander-in-chief in 1918.

The "Yankee invasion" of Alaska began about 1790 and from that time on Governor Baranof complained frequently that the Americans were continually outbidding him for furs and taking the cream of his trade.

Feed Mill Burns At Niles, Ohio

NILES, O., July 23.—Fire early today destroyed the Drake & McConnell Co. feed mill at the edge of the downtown district here. The flames, said by firemen to have been started by spontaneous combustion, spread rapidly through the building and attracted hundreds of spectators.

The firemen were handicapped in fighting the blaze by the loss of a truck which was disabled late yesterday afternoon.
